Greek Ship Burns In Atlantic

Cuban Situation Appears Muddled

Khrush Tries To Save Face For Castro

Kennedy Stands Firm In Demands On Disarmament

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev reportedly is trying through an exchange of letters with President Kennedy to raise his price for removal of Soviet jet bombers from Cuba.

His evident purpose is to get something out of the deal for Cuba's Communist prime minister, Fidel Castro.

Kennedy, under the cover of secrecy which shrouds the correspondence, is understood to have rejected Khrushchev's proposed price although it is understood the President considers some elements of the bomber dispute and related problems negotiable.

Top U.S. officials say privately they hope for settlement of the bomber question in the next few days. But if agreement by Khrushchev to remove the two dozen or more IL28 medium jets is not forthcoming soon Kennedy will have to decide what if any further pressures he wants to apply.

Failure of Khrushchev to get the planes out would be considered here as a violation of his agreement last month to remove from Cuba all weapons the President considered offensive. That included the IL28s, which can carry nuclear bombs up to 750 miles.

Thus the U.S.-Soviet confrontation over Cuba is once more moving into a critical period. This is underscored by the fact that Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan is said to be winding up his prolonged talks with Castro in Havana and is expected to fly from Havana to New York soon.

Kennedy's known view is that the working out of this problem is up to Khrushchev and that the United States has no direct concern with Castro's tatitude.

The Miami News reported Thursday that the White House had received hard intelligence reports that as many as 30 nuclear-capable Soviet missiles had been left behind in Cuban caves and other underground hiding places when the Russians pulled out their announced 42 rockets—which they said were all they had sent to the island.

White House sources said no such information has been received. The Defense Department said also it had no credible reports of any such hiding of nuclear war equipment in Cuba.

In the past, Cuban refugees have reported such underground hiding of rockets and other nuclear equipment but administration sources consistently have discounted these reports as unsubstantiated.

Authoritative informants disclosed Wednesday that Khrushchev had sent a letter to Kennedy stating his conditions for removal of the jet bombers of which there were reported to be more than two dozen and probably more than 30 now in Cuba.

It was understood that Khrushchev had either directly or in effect given support to Castro's five-point demand for his agreement to a Cuban settlement.

His points included withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Guantanamo naval base and an end to what he considers threatening activities against Cuban communism.

The President has taken the position that his offer of a no-invasion pledge is the final commitment he intends to make if the Cuban settlement deal works out. In other words, he does not intend to give guarantees against a direct U.S. military assault on Cuba until Khrushchev not only has removed all offensive weapons but also agreed to precise steps to guarantee the United States that they will not be reintroduced.

Fears Reprisals

A masked witness who identified himself as a Cuban refugee doctor who fled his homeland seven or eight months ago, testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. The mystery witness described his experience with their group. The witness wore the mask because he feared reprisals against friends and relatives still in Cuba. (AP Photofax)

Zorin Claims East-West Not So Far Apart

MOSCOW (UPI)—Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, permanent Soviet representative at the United Nations, believes the East and West are "not so very far apart" on the question of ending nuclear tests, Moscow Radio said Thursday.

Moscow Radio broadcast an interview given by Zorin to its New York correspondent.

"Recent events, which worried the peoples of all countries, demand new and bold steps to safeguard international peace and security," Zorin was quoted as saying.

"The positions of the sides on the question of the discontinuance of nuclear tests are now not so very far apart, but for their ultimate coming together, further efforts by all sides are required."

Zorin said the Soviet Union advocates the ending of all nuclear tests as of Jan. 1, 1963.

"It will then be possible, as (Soviet Premier Nikita S.) Khrushchev pointed out in his message to President Kennedy on Oct. 27th, 'to give the people a good present, to gladden them with the tidings that agreement has been reached on the discontinuance of nuclear arms tests,' Zorin said.

"As for the Soviet Union, it will spare no efforts to reach this noble aim as speedily as possible."

Canada Plane Shadows Red Sub

OTTAWA (AP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force patrol plane has taken photographs of a Soviet submarine which apparently could not submerge because of mechanical trouble, RCAF officicials said today.

The RCAF is understood to be shadowing the submarine, en route home after being spotted by U.S. forces in the Puerto Rico area.

The photographs, showing the submarine's number—945—on the conning tower, were taken "several hundred miles" east-southeast of Halifax, the RCAF said.

Heavy Snows Hit Two Sections Of U.S. Thursday

By The Associated Press

Separate snowstorms hit northern New England and northern sections of the midcontinent with traffic-hampering blows Thursday.

A ship-crippling storm with winds that reached hurricane force at the center over the North Atlantic plastered eastern Maine with up to 17 inches of blowing and drifting snow.

The battering winds kicked up mountainous seas in the Atlantic and several ships put out calls for assistance.

Another snowstorm spread from northern Colorado through Wyoming, western Nebraska, the Dakotas and into western Minnesota. The fall reached 3 inches in Cheyenne, Wyo.

A Trailways passenger bus skidded over on its side during the storm on U.S. Highway 160, about 12 miles northeast of Pagosa Springs, Colo. Several persons were injured.

Bangor, Maine, had 17 inches of snow on the ground, 8 inches falling during the morning. Northerly winds of 20 to 25 miles an hour caused drifting and blowing.

South Hyannis, Mass., was lashed with northerly winds gusting up to 60 m.p.h. and some flooding was reported on Cape Cod. Gale force winds were reported along the New England coastline.

A third weather system moved into the Pacific Northwest, spreading clouds throughout that area and causing some rain or snow in western Washington and Oregon.

Skies were generally clear in the far Southwest, western Montana and the Eastern states from New York southward.

Afternoon temperatures were in the chilly 30s and 40s in the snow belt in the GreatPlains. South of the cold front, the mercury pushed into the 50s and 60s with a few 70s recorded in parts of Texas and Louisiana.

Conference Agrees On Tax Slash

Industry, Union, Civic Leaders Urge Quick Cut

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A conference of 170 industry, union and civic leaders has overwhelmingly endorsed President Kennedy's proposal for a quick and substantial tax reduction.

After two days of discussion, an expanded meeting of the President's Labor-Management Advisory Committee came up Thursday with a majority conclusion that the tax cut should be permanent and should emphasize lower personal income tax rates, with corporate rate reductions on a smaller scale.

Figures Vary

The figures mentioned were higher, in many cases, than the $6 to $8 billion in tax reduction which has been unofficially mentioned as under consideration.

Many participants, on both the management and labor sides, recommended figures of $10 to $15 billion as being appropriate for the desired stimulus to jobs, production, and business expansion.

But $10 billion or somewhat less seemed to be the average.

All but a handful of participants, it developed, felt that tax reduction in 1963 is the proper policy to spur the sluggishly rising rate of national output.

Few raised the objection—heard from some Congress members—that a tax cut would worsen an already serious federal deficit, $7.8 billion in this fiscal year.

Labor spokesmen as expected generally favored concentrating the whole cut or most of it in the personal income tax, as a stimulus to consumer buying.

Strengthen Kennedy

Industry representatives generally felt corporate rates also should be reduced. Many of those on the public side—economists, educators and public officials—apparently leaned to the belief that at least two-thirds of the cut should be aimed toward consumers.

The findings of the conference are believed likely to strengthen President Kennedy's hand enormously when he makes his expected appeal for tax reduction to the 88th Congress soon after it convenes in January.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon told the meeting that neither the Cuban crisis nor the prospect of a deeper budget deficit should delay an overhaul of the "onerous" tax structure.

Truckers Vote On AFL-CIO Affiliation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Truckers from four states in perhaps the most serious attack on the leadership of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, began voting Thursday on whether to remain in the independent Teamsters Union or rejoin the AFL-CIO.

There have been successful Teamsters revolts against Hoffa in the past—such as those in Chicago and Cincinnati — but these involved taxi and dairy drivers.

Those voting here, in a police-guarded election continuing through 6 p.m. Sunday, were over-the-road freight drivers.

In the 1.7-million-member Teamsters Union these long-distance freight drivers are regarded as the cornerstone of Hoffa's strength. This is the first time any over-the-road drivers have been involved in a try to switch to the AFL-CIO.

Indians Open First Major Offensive Against Chinese

Reds Reported Standing Firm Along Border

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian forces have opened their first major offensive of the undeclared Himalayan border war with Red China, killing an unknown number of enemy troops entrenched in the northeastern sector, the Defense Ministry reported Thursday.

A Red Chinese broadcast heard in Tokyo said, however, the attacks—made under heavy artillery fire—were being repulsed by Communist troops still holding their positions.

"Fierce fighting was still in progress up to this morning," the Peking broadcast said.

An Indian Defense Ministry spokesman said the attacks were carried out on Red Chinese positions near Walong, 15 miles from the Burma border.

The spokesman said a smaller attack was carried out Wednesday by an Indian patrol on Red Chinese forces holding a village outside of Jang, near the Bhutan border and about 300 miles west of Walong.

There had been fears the Red Chinese could use their positions at Walong and Jang as jumping off points for possible drives down into the plains of the Indian State of Assam.

A lull in the fighting continued in Ladakh on the northwestern front in the war over disputed border territories in the Himalayas. The Red Chinese had moved up tanks and reinforcements there in preparation for what appeared to be a major thrust.

The Defense Ministry spokesman said he was unable to say whether the arms used by the Indians in the new attacks were from supplies sent hurriedly by the United States and Britain. The emergency shipments flowed into India by jet transport planes all last week.

The rush of volunteers to fight the Red Chinese has been so great, Nehru told Parliament Thursday, there is no need for general compulsory training of young men. He said members of Parliament, however, would be given rifle training starting Saturday.

But, Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri announced university students will be given compulsory military training and that able-bodied men in the threatened border areas will be armed.

Adenauer Ends Discussion With Pres. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer wound up two days of intensive cold war talks Thursday by pledging that the freedom and accessibility of West Berlin will be defended by all available means.

In a communique issued at the conclusion of their final 45-minute meeting in the White House, Kennedy and Adenauer declared they "examined the opportunities which might arise in the future to clarify unresolved questions and to better insure peace."

"The freedom and viability of Berlin will be preserved in all circumstances and with all means," the communique said.

Adenauer earlier told the National Press Club he thought Kennedy's vigorous reaction to the missile threat in Cuba had surprised Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and may cause the Russian to revise his Berlin attitude.

In the communique, the two men said only that they had considered events relating to Cuba "and their effect both on the general situation and the problems of special interest to the two countries."

They said their discussions included contingency planning for West Berlin, the general subject of East-West relations, political and military matters pertaining to NATO, and developments relating to the economic and political integration of Europe.

As Kennedy helped Adenauer into his car after the last meeting Thursday, he told his guest: "It has been a fine visit."

In his press club address, the chancellor said the free world would have been lost if the United States had not called Russia's hand and halted the Cuba missiles buildup.

"For the first time," Adenauer declared, "the American people had to look the deadly danger straight in the eye, and the American people passed the test."

Mexico Press Expresses Fear On Cuba Crisis

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Pro- and anti-Castro factions stepped up their hemisphere activities Thursday while the Mexican press reflected fear that the United States has lost the initiative in the Caribbean and is exposed to a Communist counter-strike.

Informed sources said that diplomatic soundings on Latin American countries' attitudes toward a prospective Cuban government-in-exile in Guatemala are under way.

Castro supporters also were active. Copies arrived here of a call issued for a secret meeting of Latin American Communist leaders at an unrevealed place. This was the same manifesto said to have been published in the Havana Communist daily Hoy.

The daily Excelsior, reflecting local opinion that the Caribbean crisis has taken a new turn, said:

"Vacillation must cease. White House energy must block a Red counter-blow in Latin America . . .is President Kennedy going to lose the bout after winning the first few rounds?"

The newspaper Ovaciones said efforts are being made to determine the Mexican government's attitude toward a Cuban anti-Castro government.

Exile groups throughout the hemisphere are understood to be closing ranks behind an "invasion is the only solution" statement made Wednesday in Miami, Fla., by former Cuban Premier Antonio de Varona.

Freighter Loaded With Explosives

25 Crewmen Fight Flames As Rescue Ships Try To Aid

BULLETIN

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Crewmen abandoned a burning Greek freighter in the storm-tossed Atlantic late Thursday night as flames swept near her cargo of high explosives. Rescue ships picked up seven men but said one lifeboat capsized and they had lost sight of 18 others. All 18 reportedly wore life jackets. The temperature of the water was reported to be 74 degrees.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Twenty-five men aboard a blazing Greek freighter loaded with explosives tried to abandon ship in a mighty Atlantic storm Thursday. Five men reached safety aboard a rescue ship but the rest were forced to stick with their floating powder keg.

The Coast Guard reported that the freighter Captain George launched one liferaft. A plane circling overhead said that the raft was swamped and lost within minutes.

However, at 5 p.m. the Coast Guard received a message from a rescue ship, the SS Trinity navigator, saying the five men aboard the liferaft had reached the rescue ship and were safe.

The 20 blistered, smoke-blackened men still on the freighter continued to fight searing heat and choking smoke in an effort to save their ship. But it appeared to be a losing battle.

A call went out for helicopters, but the Coast Guard said this was "out of the question" because the burning freighter was too far from land. The ship was located 500 miles east of New York and Bermuda.

Recommends Abandonment

The Coast Guard told the Trinity navigator, one of two rescue ships standing by, that it "strongly recommended" that the rest of the crew abandon ship before dark if it appeared the ship could not be saved.

The liferaft was launched shortly after the other rescue ship, the SS Virginia, attempted to come alongside the freighter in the heavy seas and gale-force winds and damaged her starboard side.

The Virginia had to pull away and said that the weather was so rough it would not attempt to approach the freighter again.

The skipper of the Virginia sent word to the Captain George, suggesting that the ship heave to, head up into the wind and try to ride the storm out.

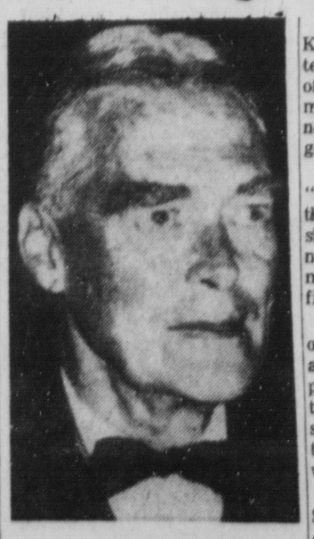
Fashion Designer Meets Death In Eleven-Story Leap

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Irene Gibbons, famed as the "Irene" who designed clothes for movie stars and helped set fashion trends, leaped to her death Thursday from the 11th floor of a Hollywood hotel, police said.

"I'm sorry, this is the best way . . . " was the content of a note found in the room in which Mrs. Gibbons had registered Thursday morning. Detectives said the woman, owner of Irene Inc., had apparently tried to cut her wrists but decided instead to jump.

Only Tuesday, Mrs. Gibbons had put on display her latest fashion designs for the California fashion show in Beverly Hills.

Herter Is Named To Head New Foreign Trade Group



CHRISTIAN A. HERTER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy picked Christian A. Herter, former Republican secretary of state, Thursday to be the top man for the United States in the new foreign trade negotiating program.

Kennedy said Herter will be "one of the top policy officials of the United States government in shaping and achieving our international objectives in the commercial, trade and economic fields."

Herter will have the key role in one of the major programs enacted by the last Congress. It provides sweeping authority for the administration to wipe out some tariffs and cut others drastically in order to expand trade with other countries.

Herter, 67, was secretary of State from 1959 through the close of the Eisenhower administration in January of last year.

Castro Threatens To Shoot Down U.S. Planes

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Reliable sources said Thursday night Prime Minister Fidel Castro had sent a blunt warning through acting Secretary-General U Thant that Cuba will shoot down any U.S. planes flying reconnaissance missions over Cuban territory.

The warning was contained in a letter given to Thant by a Cuban representative. Its contents were made known later to U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson by the secretary-general.

Full details of the letter outlining Castro's position of the Cuban crisis were withheld at the request of Cuba. A U.N. spokesman said the communication will be published Friday morning.

The development came amid a new flurry of diplomatic activity in which Thant met jointly with Cuban U.N. delegate Carlos Lechuga and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov.

Stevenson and Kuznetsov arranged a meeting Thursday night at the Soviet U.N. mission.

Lechuga said he had presented no new proposals to Thant, but indicated the Castro communication would reflect the Cuban leader's latest position in the light of talks he has been holding in Havana with Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

Mikoyan's departure from Havana was reported imminent. He may stop in New York for talks with Kuznetsov on his way home.

Earlier, Cuban sources said Lechuga and Kuznetsov still were considering whether to push the Soviet-Cuban proposals they took up with Thant on Tuesday, either in their original or revised form.

These were understood to have been based largely on Castro's five-point demands, including U.S. withdrawal from the naval base at Guantanamo and an end to U.S. activities considered by Castro to be aimed at toppling his government.

The United States said that the proposals were not relayed after the Tuesday meeting. U.N. sources said Cuba and the Soviet Union did not want them relayed in their original form. Diplomatic sources took the view that Thant discouraged immediate relay on the grounds the proposals would meet outright U.S. rejection.

There was no word of agreement on U.S. demands for removal of the two dozen Soviet jet bombers in Cuba or for inspection measures in connection with the presence of offensive weapons in Cuba.

Greek Ship Burns In Atlantic

Khrush Tries To Save Face For Castro

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev reportedly is trying through an exchange of letters with President Kennedy to raise his price for removal of Soviet jet bombers from Cuba.

His evident purpose is to get something out of the deal for Cuba's Communist prime minister, Fidel Castro.

Kennedy, under the cover of secrecy which shrouds the correspondence, is understood to have rejected Khrushchev's proposed price although it is understood the President considers some elements of the bomber dispute and related problems negotiable.

Top U.S. officials say privately they hope for settlement of the bomber question in the next few days. But if agreement by Khrushchev to remove the two dozen or more IL28 medium jets is not forthcoming soon Kennedy will have to decide what if any further pressures he wants to apply.

Failure of Khrushchev to get the planes out would be considered here as a violation of his agreement last month to remove from Cuba all weapons the President considered offensive. That included the IL28s, which can carry nuclear bombs up to 750 miles.

Thus the U.S.-Soviet confrontation over Cuba is once more moving into a critical period. This is underscored by the fact that Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan is said to be winding up his prolonged talks with Castro in Havana and is expected to fly from Havana to New York soon.

Kennedy's known view is that the working out of this problem is up to Khrushchev and that the United States has no direct concern with Castro's tatitude.

The Miami News reported Thursday that the White House had received hard intelligence reports that as many as 30 nuclear-capable Soviet missiles had been left behind in Cuban caves and other underground hiding places when the Russians pulled out their announced 42 rockets—which they said were all they had sent to the island.

White House sources said no such information has been received. The Defense Department said also it had no credible reports of any such hiding of nuclear war equipment in Cuba.

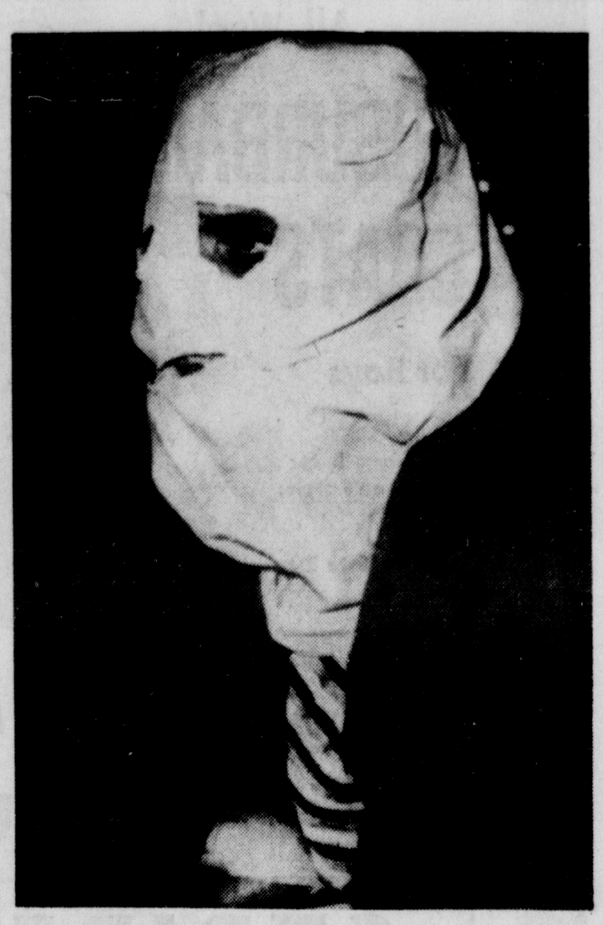
In the past, Cuban refugees have reported such underground hiding of rockets and other nuclear equipment but administration sources consistently have discounted these reports as unsubstantiated.

Authoritative informants disclosed Wednesday that Khrushchev had sent a letter to Kennedy stating his conditions for removal of the jet bombers of which there were reported to be more than two dozen and probably more than 30 now in Cuba.

It was understood that Khrushchev had either directly or in effect given support to Castro's five-point demand for his agreement to a Cuban settlement.

His points included withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Guantanamo naval base and an end to what he considers threatening activities against Cuban communism.

The President has taken the position that his offer of a no-invasion pledge is the final commitment he intends to make if the Cuban settlement deal works out. In other words, he does not intend to give guarantees against a direct U.S. military assault on Cuba until Khrushchev not only has removed all offensive weapons but also agreed to precise steps to guarantee the United States that they will not be reintroduced.



Fears Reprisals

Zorin Claims East-West Not So Far Apart

MOSCOW (UPI)—Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, permanent Soviet representative at the United Nations, believes the East and West are "not so very far apart" on the question of ending nuclear tests, Moscow Radio said Thursday.

Moscow Radio broadcast an interview given by Zorin to its New York correspondent.

"Recent events, which worried the peoples of all countries, demand new and bold steps to safeguard international peace and security," Zorin was quoted as saying.

"The positions of the sides on the question of the discontinuance of nuclear tests are now not so very far apart, but for their ultimate coming together, further efforts by all sides are required."

Zorin said the Soviet Union advocates the ending of all nuclear tests as of Jan. 1, 1963.

"It will then be possible, as (Soviet Premier Nikita S.) Khrushchev pointed out in his message to President Kennedy on Oct. 27th, 'to give the people a good present, to gladden them with the tidings that agreement has been reached on the discontinuance of nuclear arms tests,' Zorin said.

"As for the Soviet Union, it will spare no efforts to reach this noble aim as speedily as possible."

Conference Agrees On Tax Slash

Industry, Union, Civic Leaders Urge Quick Cut

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A conference of 170 industry, union and civic leaders has overwhelmingly endorsed President Kennedy's proposal for a quick and substantial tax reduction.

After two days of discussion, an expanded meeting of the President's Labor-Management Advisory Committee came up Thursday with a majority conclusion that the tax cut should be permanent and should emphasize lower personal income tax rates, with corporate rate reductions on a smaller scale.

Figures Vary

The figures mentioned were higher, in many cases, than the $6 to $8 billion in tax reduction which has been unofficially mentioned as under consideration.

Many participants, on both the management and labor sides, recommended figures of $10 to $15 billion as being appropriate for the desired stimulus to jobs, production, and business expansion.

But $10 billion or somewhat less seemed to be the average.

All but a handful of participants, it developed, felt that tax reduction in 1963 is the proper policy to spur the sluggishly rising rate of national output.

Few raised the objection—heard from some Congress members—that a tax cut would worsen an already serious federal deficit, $7.8 billion in this fiscal year.

Labor spokesmen as expected generally favored concentrating the whole cut or most of it in the personal income tax, as a stimulus to consumer buying.

Strengthen Kennedy

Industry representatives generally felt corporate rates also should be reduced. Many of those on the public side—economists, educators and public officials—apparently leaned to the belief that at least two-thirds of the cut should be aimed toward consumers.

The findings of the conference are believed likely to strengthen President Kennedy's hand enormously when he makes his expected appeal for tax reduction to the 88th Congress soon after it convenes in January.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon told the meeting that neither the Cuban crisis nor the prospect of a deeper budget deficit should delay an overhaul of the "onerous" tax structure.

Truckers Vote On AFL-CIO Affiliation

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Truckers from four states in perhaps the most serious attack on the leadership of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa, began voting Thursday on whether to remain in the independent Teamsters Union or rejoin the AFL-CIO.

There have been successful Teamsters revolts against Hoffa in the past—such as those in Chicago and Cincinnati — but these involved taxi and dairy drivers.

Those voting here, in a police-guarded election continuing through 6 p.m. Sunday, were over-the-road freight drivers.

In the 1.7-million-member Teamsters Union these long-distance freight drivers are regarded as the cornerstone of Hoffa's strength. This is the first time any over-the-road drivers have been involved in a try to switch to the AFL-CIO.

Indians Open First Major Offensive Against Chinese

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian forces have opened their first major offensive of the undeclared Himalayan border war with Red China, killing an unknown number of enemy troops entrenched in the northeastern sector, the Defense Ministry reported Thursday.

A Red Chinese broadcast heard in Tokyo said, however, the attacks—made under heavy artillery fire—were being repulsed by Communist troops still holding their positions.

"Fierce fighting was still in progress up to this morning," the Peking broadcast said.

An Indian Defense Ministry spokesman said the attacks were carried out on Red Chinese positions near Walong, 15 miles from the Burma border.

The spokesman said a smaller attack was carried out Wednesday by an Indian patrol on Red Chinese forces holding a village outside of Jang, near the Bhutan border and about 300 miles west of Walong.

There had been fears the Red Chinese could use their positions at Walong and Jang as jumping off points for possible drives down into the plains of the Indian State of Assam.

A lull in the fighting continued in Ladakh on the northwestern front in the war over disputed border territories in the Himalayas. The Red Chinese had moved up tanks and reinforcements there in preparation for what appeared to be a major thrust.

The Defense Ministry spokesman said he was unable to say whether the arms used by the Indians in the new attacks were from supplies sent hurriedly by the United States and Britain. The emergency shipments flowed into India by jet transport planes all last week.

The rush of volunteers to fight the Red Chinese has been so great, Nehru told Parliament Thursday, there is no need for general compulsory training of young men. He said members of Parliament, however, would be given rifle training starting Saturday.

But, Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri announced university students will be given compulsory military training and that able-bodied men in the threatened border areas will be armed.

Adenauer Ends Discussion With Pres. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer wound up two days of intensive cold war talks Thursday by pledging that the freedom and accessibility of West Berlin will be defended by all available means.

In a communique issued at the conclusion of their final 45-minute meeting in the White House, Kennedy and Adenauer declared they "examined the opportunities which might arise in the future to clarify unresolved questions and to better insure peace."

"The freedom and viability of Berlin will be preserved in all circumstances and with all means," the communique said.

Adenauer earlier told the National Press Club he thought Kennedy's vigorous reaction to the missile threat in Cuba had surprised Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and may cause the Russian to revise his Berlin attitude.

In the communique, the two men said only that they had considered events relating to Cuba "and their effect both on the general situation and the problems of special interest to the two countries."

They said their discussions included contingency planning for West Berlin, the general subject of East-West relations, political and military matters pertaining to NATO, and developments relating to the economic and political integration of Europe.

As Kennedy helped Adenauer into his car after the last meeting Thursday, he told his guest: "It has been a fine visit."

In his press club address, the chancellor said the free world would have been lost if the United States had not called Russia's hand and halted the Cuba missiles buildup.

"For the first time," Adenauer declared, "the American people had to look the deadly danger straight in the eye, and the American people passed the test."

Mexico Press Expresses Fear On Cuba Crisis

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Pro- and anti-Castro factions stepped up their hemisphere activities Thursday while the Mexican press reflected fear that the United States has lost the initiative in the Caribbean and is exposed to a Communist counter-strike.

Informed sources said that diplomatic soundings on Latin American countries' attitudes toward a prospective Cuban government-in-exile in Guatemala are under way.

Castro supporters also were active. Copies arrived here of a call issued for a secret meeting of Latin American Communist leaders at an unrevealed place. This was the same manifesto said to have been published in the Havana Communist daily Hoy.

The daily Excelsior, reflecting local opinion that the Caribbean crisis has taken a new turn, said:

"Vacillation must cease. White House energy must block a Red counter-blow in Latin America . . .is President Kennedy going to lose the bout after winning the the first few rounds?"

The newspaper Ovaciones said efforts are being made to determine the Mexican government's attitude toward a Cuban anti-Castro government.

Exile groups throughout the hemisphere are understood to be closing ranks behind an "invasion is the only solution" statement made Wednesday in Miami, Fla., by former Cuban Premier Antonio de Varona.

Freighter Loaded With Explosives

BULLETIN

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Crewmen abandoned a burning Greek freighter in the storm-tossed Atlantic late Thursday night as flames swept near her cargo of high explosives. Rescue ships picked up seven men but said one lifeboat capsized and they had lost sight of 18 others. All 18 reportedly wore life jackets. The temperature of the water was reported to be 74 degrees.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Twenty-five men aboard a blazing Greek freighter loaded with explosives tried to abandon ship in a mighty Atlantic storm Thursday. Five men reached safety aboard a rescue ship but the rest were forced to stick with their floating powder keg.

The Coast Guard reported that the freighter Captain George launched one liferaft. A plane circling overhead said that the raft was swamped and lost within minutes.

However, at 5 p.m. the Coast Guard received a message from a rescue ship, the SS Trinity navigator, saying the five men aboard the liferaft had reached the rescue ship and were safe.

The 20 blistered, smoke-blackened men still on the freighter continued to fight searing heat and choking smoke in an effort to save their ship. But it appeared to be a losing battle.

A call went out for helicopters, but the Coast Guard said this was "out of the question" because the burning freighter was too far from land. The ship was located 500 miles east of New York and Bermuda.

Recommends Abandonment

The Coast Guard told the Trinity navigator, one of two rescue ships standing by, that it "strongly recommended" that the rest of the crew abandon ship before dark if it appeared the ship could not be saved.

The liferaft was launched shortly after the other rescue ship, the SS Virginia, attempted to come alongside the freighter in the heavy seas and gale-force winds and damaged her starboard side.

The Virginia had to pull away and said that the weather was so rough it would not attempt to approach the freighter again.

The skipper of the Virginia sent word to the Captain George, suggesting that the ship heave to, head up into the wind and try to ride the storm out.

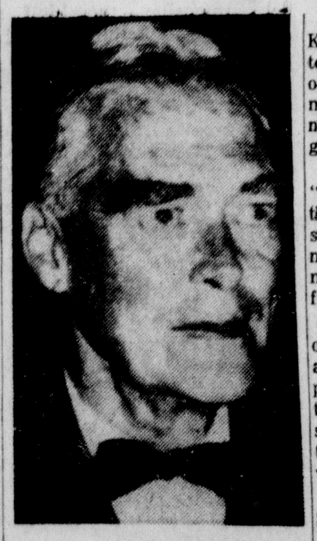
Fashion Designer Meets Death In Eleven-Story Leap

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Irene Gibbons, famed as the "Irene" who designed clothes for movie stars and helped set fashion trends, leaped to her death Thursday from the 11th floor of a Hollywood hotel, police said.

"I'm sorry, this is the best way . . . " was the content of a note found in the room in which Mrs. Gibbons had registered Thursday morning. Detectives said the woman, owner of Irene Inc., had apparently tried to cut her wrists but decided instead to jump.

Only Tuesday, Mrs. Gibbons had put on display her latest fashion designs for the California fashion show in Beverly Hills.

Herter Is Named To Head New Foreign Trade Group



CHRISTIAN A. HERTER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy picked Christian A. Herter, former Republican secretary of state, Thursday to be the top man for the United States in the new foreign trade negotiating program.

Kennedy said Herter will be "one of the top policy officials of the United States government in shaping and achieving our international objectives in the commercial, trade and economic fields."

Herter will have the key role in one of the major programs enacted by the last Congress. It provides sweeping authority for the administration to wipe out some tariffs and cut others drastically in order to expand trade with other countries.

Herter, 67, was secretary of State from 1959 through the close of the Eisenhower administration in January of last year.

Castro Threatens To Shoot Down U.S. Planes

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Reliable sources said Thursday night Prime Minister Fidel Castro had sent a blunt warning through acting Secretary-General U Thant that Cuba will shoot down any U.S. planes flying reconnaissance missions over Cuban territory.

The warning was contained in a letter given to Thant by a Cuban representative. Its contents were made known later to U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson by the secretary-general.

Full details of the letter outlining Castro's position of the Cuban crisis were withheld at the request of Cuba. A U.N. spokesman said the communication will be published Friday morning.

The development came amid a new flurry of diplomatic activity in which Thant met jointly with Cuban U.N. delegate Carlos Lechuga and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov.

Stevenson and Kuznetsov arranged a meeting Thursday night at the Soviet U.N. mission.

Lechuga said he had presented no new proposals to Thant, but indicated the Castro communication would reflect the Cuban leader's latest position in the light of talks he has been holding in Havana with Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

Mikoyan's departure from Havana was reported imminent. He may stop in New York for talks with Kuznetsov on his way home.

Earlier, Cuban sources said Lechuga and Kuznetsov still were considering whether to push the Soviet-Cuban proposals they took up with Thant on Tuesday, either in their original or revised form.

These were understood to have been based largely on Castro's five-point demands, including U.S. withdrawal from the naval base at Guantanamo and an end to U.S. activities considered by Castro to be aimed at toppling his government.

The United States said that the proposals were not relayed after the Tuesday meeting. U.N. sources said Cuba and the Soviet Union did not want them relayed in their original form. Diplomatic sources took the view that Thant discouraged immediate relay on the grounds the proposals would meet outright U.S. rejection.

There was no word of agreement on U.S. demands for removal of the two dozen Soviet jet bombers in Cuba or for inspection measures in connection with the presence of offensive weapons in Cuba.

First Reporter To Visit Himalayan Frontier Describes Terrain, Troops

Editor's Note — The Indian government this week provided a guided tour for a group of reporters to the Himalayan frontier, hitherto barred to all foreign correspondents. The AP reporter who visited the area wrote this dispatch Monday, then traveled by jeep for a day and a half to file at a cablehead. The dispatch was further delayed by censorship, and then released under ground rules set up the by Indian armed forces.

By ALAN KENNEDY

SE LA, Indian Northeastern Frontier (AP)—"We'll do it—even if we have to use the knife," a senior Indian officer said Monday.

He had been asked if the Indian army could hold this 13,756-ft. high mountain pass against the Communist Chinese, now dug in on the north side of the Towang River, six miles from here.

"I am sorry I cannot paint a rosy picture," said the officer.

Declining the use of his name, he said Indian morale was high—and visiting correspondents found it so.

But superiority of numbers and of automatic weapons firepower still appears to be enjoyed by the Chinese.

Problem Of Supply

The officer also referred to the problem of supplying ammunition to the troops in the towering Himalayan Mountains.

British and American automatic weapons have been airlifted to India in past weeks to try to match the Chinese submachine guns. But they were not visible to newsmen.

The Indian army fell back on Se La in the fourth week of October under assault by three divisions of Chinese, outnumbering the Indians four to one.

The invaders halted about 15 miles south of th India-Tibet frontier.

Positions Stable

Since then, positions have more or less been stable, with the Chinese forces centered at the monastery town of Towang, and dug in on the Towang River.

Se La, over which passes a road from Towang to the Indian plains, is a formidable natural fortress. It towers 8,000 feet above valleys on both sides.

Indian units are dug in on a mountain, and Indian outposts extend into a steep, forested no man's land on the Chinese side.

Indian artillery on the mountain outranges the lighter guns and mortars used so far by the Chinese.

Indian artillerymen, in a demonstration for correspondents, fired nine rounds from 25-pounder guns over a mountain at likely targets in no man's land. A Chinese movement had been spotted in the target areas from time to time. The Chinese guns did not reply.

Heavy Forests

The the situation has draw' backs.

The forest on Se La is so thick patrols can move almost unseen in daylight.

One Chinese patrol climbed all the way up the mountain a few days ago and fired a submachine gun burst into the bowl-shaped area at the top.

The Chinese did not hit anything, and fled before the Indians could reply. But the incident showed what could happen.

Chinese Have Artillery

The Chinese army possesses mortars and heavier artillery than the mountain guns hitherto used.

The betting here is that these bigger weapons were dragged or packed over the passes from Tibet in the past three weeks.

The question for the Indians is what the Chinese intend to do.

One school of thought is that the invaders have gone as far as they wish for the time being in the western sector of India's Northeast Frontier Agency.

The theory is the Chinese will push in at other points to even out their line of control.

This would mean the Towang-Se La front would be quiet until next spring at least, excepting patrol clashes and sporadic artillery exchanges.

Chinese Can Move

It would be quite possible for the Chinese in the Towang area to turn right and move down the Manas River Valley all the way to the plains, through Bhutan.

Faced with this possibility, the Indian corps commander, Lt. Gen. Mohan Kaul, must decide where to concentrate his troops and which sectors should get heaviest supply lines.

The supply problem was shown in all its incredible difficulty to about 40 Indian and foreign correspondents who made a 1½-day jeep trip to Se La.

Built New Road

The road, built by Indian army engineers of a project called Tusker over the past six years, is earth or rock all the way, and 75 per cent is up or down mountain sides.

Jeeps and four-wheel-drive trucks, which are the only vehicles that can make it, have to use low gear nearly all the way. When clouds lift from the mountain top, American-built four-engine transports unload strings of parcels by parachute onto a treeless meadow at Se La.

When clouds close in at the top, airdrop is done by slower, more maneuverable two-engine planes at lower levels.

Helicopters, which lose most of their lifting power in the thin, high mountain air, are used sparingly—mostly for personnel.

Freighter

But the raging fire apparently was getting too close to the explosive cargo and minutes later came word that at least one of the lifeboats on the freighter had been dropped into the angry waves and men were ready to leap over the side.

The 442-foot freighter wallowed in mountainous 60-foot waves, her holds loaded with dynamite, other explosives and nitrates similar to the materials that caused the Texas City blast that killed 500 persons.

The gigantic Atlantic storm raged from as far south at Bermuda north to Nova Scotia. At least seven other ships were reported in distress, missing or driven ashore.

At 3 p.m. EST, the Coast Guard reported that a rescue ship near the Captain George flashed word to all other vessels in the area to "clear out—move away from the Captain George."

The warning indicated that the fire was nearing the dynamite despite an almost superhuman effort on the part of the crew to shift the hundreds of boxes and crates of explosives out of the danger area.

Dr. Teller Receives Fermi Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Edward Teller, Nobel prize-winning physicist who often is called the father of the hydrogen bomb, was announced today as winner of the Atomic Energy Commission's Enrico Fermi award for 1962.

Teller, University of California scientist, will receive a gold medal, a citation and $50,000 at a ceremony on Dec. 3, the AEC announced.

The Fermi award is made on recommendation of the AEC's generll advisory committee and is approved by the President. The award is named in honor of the late Dr. Enrico Fermi, leader of a group of scientists who achieved the first self-sustained nuclear chain reaction on Dec. 2, 1942.

Teller has opposed moratoriums on nuclear testing and said last June he believed this country was behind Russia both in space and in nuclear weapons development.

Flash Floods Sweep Italy

ROME (AP) — Torrential rains brought flash floods Thursday to low-lying areas on the outskirts of Rome, driving hundreds from their homes.

In the Tiber River Valley between Rome and Viterbo to the north, hundreds of acres of farm land were under water. Railroad and highway communications from Rome north were cut in several places by landslides, but these were quickly cleared.

Heavy rains and winds also disrupted shipping off Sicily and southern Italy.

Red Policeman Shoots His Way To West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—An East German policeman shot his way to freedom in West Berlin with a tommygun Thursday.

Communist police tried to block his escape and 34 shots were exchanged in the border incident. The 19-year-old refugee reached the U.S. sector safely and police said it appeared no one was injured in the machinegun duel.

The border guard was patrolling the southeastern sector when he made a dash for a barbed wire barricade separating the U.S. sector area of Rudow from the East German district of Gross Ziethen. Other border guards opened fire as he ran through a small woods. The refugee fired his machine pistol to cover his escape.

The United States Thursday sent two more military convoys across East Germany to underscore Western rights of access to this isolated city.

The U.S. Army also disclosed one of its helicopters had flown over East Berlin in defiance of Soviet threats to shoot down such flights.

President Plans News Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Thursday it was "almost certain" that President Kennedy will hold a news conference next week, probably Wednesday. It will be his first since Sept. 13.

Salinger said Kennedy probably would open the session with a statement on Cuba.

CHURCH VESSELS ON DISPLAY — Among the mementoes of the 180 years history of Centre Street Methodist Church are two silver collection plates, a tankard, two chalices and a baptismal font. All date from 1880. The collection plates were in use in the old church from 1880 until approximately 1934 and were presented by the late D. P. Miller and the late Dr. J. J. Wilson. The baptismal font was in use until about 30 years ago. When the church observed its 175th anniversary, members were asked to contribute anything connected with the church history. At that time the tankard was located in the home of one of the church families, the chalices in the church basement, and the plates and font in a cupboard of the church. Through the efforts of Mrs. James W. Kirk they were resilvered. After this week's celebration they will be placed in a niche in the pastor's study. Left to right are Rev. Carlton M. Harris, pastor; Mrs. R. Finley Thompson, anniversary chairman, and Mrs. Kirk. Saturn Moon Rocket Gets Test Today

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A Saturn moon rocket—the largest and most powerful such vehicle ever built in the United States and possibly the world—is scheduled to get its third flight test Friday.

Scientists plan to send the 162-foot metallic giant 104 miles into space and 275 miles across the Atlantic at a speed of 4,000 miles per hour.

This would be the longest space flight to date for the rocket which is tagged for the key role in America's $20-billion program to land men on the moon before the end of the decade.

The first two Saturns, flying with partial fuel loads, were launched Oct. 27, 1961 and last April 25. Both were solid successes.

The rocket to be launched Friday will have a capacity fuel load and will carry 95 tons of tap water in its two inert or "dummy" upper stages.

Purpose of the water payload is to simulate the weight of "live" engines.

Pearre Elected

BALTIMORE (AP)—D. Worthington Pearre, executive director of the Maryland Classified Employes Association, was re-elected treasurer of the Assembly of Government Employes Tuesday.

The group is holding its seventh annual meeting in Miami Beach, Fla. Representatives from 21 state employe organizations are attending the five-day conference which ends Friday.

Retail Clerks To Elect Officers

Officers of Local 886, Retail Clerks Union, will be elected at two downtown polling places Tuesday.

Balloting will be from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. in the clerks' local office, 29 South Centre Street, and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple.

King For A Day

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—The Rev. J. W. Newman of the Seventh-day Adventist Church has taken out an auctioneer's license for one day to sell his house and furniture. "If any auctioneer feels unhappy about my taking over his job," he said, "I'll be quite happy to have him become a preacher for a day in return."

Children Whipped Then Shot By Nazi

COBLENZ, Germany (UPI)—A witness testifying in Germany's biggest war crimes trial since the Nuremburg tribunals has stated that Nazi SS troops lashed children with whips to separate them from their parents before the children were shot.

Dr. Adalbert Reiff, former district judge in the Russian city of Minsk during the World War II German occupation, told the court the children of 3,300 German Jews were driven from their parents and then executed.

The court is trying 12 former Nazis on charges of killing 12,000 Jews, Gypsies and other "enemies of Nazism" in the Minsk area during the war.

Reiff said all of the children were shot, but he did not know the exact number.

Wilcoxson Goes To Brooklyn For Bank Trial

Court To Place Girl Friend's Son In Foster Home

BALTIMORE (AP) — A U.S. Marshal indicated today that he will accompany Bobby Randall Wilcoxson to Brooklyn, N. Y. early today to turn the accused bank robber over to authorities there.

Wilcoxson was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart in Baltimore Thursday on charges of robbing $34,000 from a Brooklyn bank and killing a guard last December.

Jacqueline Rose, Wilcoxson's girl friend, appeared in juvenile court Thursday as officials sought to decide on custody of her 15-month-old son. The mother of Jacqueline, Mrs. Fern Rose of Gilmer, Tex., had asked the court for custody of the child.

But Wilcoxson's 19-year-old companion said she did not want the child to be placed in his grandmother's custody. Miss Rose said she had spent too much of her own life in foster homes instead of with her mother. She said she did not want the same kind of life for her son.

Miss Rose told the court that the boy was the son of Wilcoxson, with whom she has lived. The baby is being cared for at City Hospitals.

Judge Charles E. Moylan said he would respect Miss Rose's wishes and put the child in a foster home while she and Wilcoxson face bank robbery charges. Miss Rose said she hoped she would be free soon to care for her child.

Following proceedings in Juvenile Court, Miss Rose was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner H. Allen Mezger and was charged with aiding and abetting Wilcoxson in a bank robbery in Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Rose is expected to be transferred to Buffalo today.

Bodies Of Two Airmen Recovered

MORRISTOWN, Tenn. (UPI)—The bodies of an Air Force general and captain were carried out of the snow-covered, 6,000-foot peaks of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park Wednesday.

The two men—Brig. Gen. John I. Lerom of Falls Church, Va., and Capt. Ludwig Gesund of New York City—died Saturday when their twin-engined plane crashed on the north slope of Camel Hump Mountain near 6,621-foot Mt. Guyot. The wreckage was not found until late Tuesday.

The men were flying from Andrews Air Force Base near Washington to Robins AFB near Macon, Ga. the last radio message from them was that they thought they were near Greeneville, Tenn., and were descending to 6,000 feet.

Greeneville is about 40 miles north of the crash scene. The plane crashed head-on into the mountain near the top, and the navigational error apparently was responsible. Visibility was poor on the day of the crash.

Bodies Of Two Airmen Recovered

MORRISTOWN, Tenn. (UPI)—The bodies of an Air Force general and captain were carried out of the snow-covered, 6,000-foot peaks of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park Wednesday.

The two men—Brig. Gen. John I. Lerom of Falls Church, Va., and Capt. Ludwig Gesund of New York City—died Saturday when their twin-engined plane crashed on the north slope of Camel Hump Mountain near 6,621-foot Mt. Guyot. The wreckage was not found until late Tuesday.

The men were flying from Andrews Air Force Base near Washington to Robins AFB near Macon, Ga. the last radio message from them was that they thought they were near Greeneville, Tenn., and were descending to 6,000 feet.

Greeneville is about 40 miles north of the crash scene. The plane crashed head-on into the mountain near the top, and the navigational error apparently was responsible. Visibility was poor on the day of the crash.

Kentucky Paves Way

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky leads the nation in the number of highway contracts financed without federal funds, says highway commissioner Henry Ward.

From January through May the state awarded 197 contracts on 262 miles of roads at a cost of $25,126,000.

Snow Fighters Ready For Battle

The state's highway snow fighters are ready for their annual winter battle with the elements.

John B. Funk, chairman-director of the State Roads Commission, said the commission has 668 pieces of equipment and 1,500 men in a state of readiness.

The Western Maryland region already has received its first test and everything worked well, Funk said.

In addition, he pointed out, maintenance forces have stockpiled quantities of salts, abrasives and chemicals in strategic locations throughout the state.

The snow removal operation in Maryland is under the direct command of G. Bates Chaires, assistant chief engineer, and Frank Scrivener, chief of the Bureau of Maintenance.

"Our snow removal team is set up as usual," Funk said, "to attack snow conditions rapidly. The State Roads Commission will do everything it can to keep the state highway system open to traffic around the clock despite weather conditions."

This is particularly true on Maryland's expressway system and on arterial highways, he said.

"This year we are calling for bare pavement maintenance on 2,616 miles of state highway," Funk said. Bare pavement maintenance is just what the name implies.

Under this program, salts and chemicals are applied early in the storm period so that the motorist will have a snow-free, ice-free surface on which to drive.

"Maryland expressway system must be kept clear at all times," Funk stressed, "particularly in our urban regions where these roads are used extensively by large numbers of motorists commuting to and from work."

In the Baltimore region, the state's highway chief said, the commission has worked out a plan with the Baltimore City Department of Public Works for snow removal coordination on the Jones Falls Expressway.

Following the meeting there will be dancing, shuffleboard and television. Refreshments will be served.

Dr. Rita Brinker To Instruct Sitters

Dr. Rita Brinker will instruct a course in first aid at the fifth session of the Recreation Department's babysitter classes.

One class will meet Monday at 4 p. m., and the other Friday at 4 p. m. instead of the regular time Wednesday because of the Thanksgiving holiday, Mrs. Eva M. Hogan, assistant recreation director, said yesterday.

There are 90 registered in the two classes which will meet for six sessions. At the conclusion, those who have completed requirements will receive certificates and be placed on the department's babysitter list which will be made available to the public.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Sir Frank Roberts Thursday ended a two-year tour of duty as British ambassador to the Soviet Union.

"Our snow removal team is set up as usual," Funk said, "to attack snow conditions rapidly. The State Roads Commission will do everything it can to keep the state highway system open to traffic around the clock despite weather conditions."

This is particularly true on Maryland's expressway system and on arterial highways, he said.

"This year we are calling for bare pavement maintenance on 2,616 miles of state highway," Funk said. Bare pavement maintenance is just what the name implies.

Under this program, salts and chemicals are applied early in the storm period so that the motorist will have a snow-free, ice-free surface on which to drive.

"Maryland expressway system must be kept clear at all times," Funk stressed, "particularly in our urban regions where these roads are used extensively by large numbers of motorists commuting to and from work."

In the Baltimore region, the state's highway chief said, the commission has worked out a plan with the Baltimore City Department of Public Works for snow removal coordination on the Jones Falls Expressway.

Dr. Rita Brinker To Instruct Sitters

Dr. Rita Brinker will instruct a course in first aid at the fifth session of the Recreation Department's babysitter classes.

There are 90 registered in the two classes which will meet for six sessions. At the conclusion, those who have completed requirements will receive certificates and be placed on the department's babysitter list which will be made available to the public.

There are more reasons for improving your carriage than for beauty's sake! It may even save your life!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

For Safety's Sake, Take Some Posture Pointers

Good carriage is treasured, not only for the lovely bearing it gives, but for the actual physical safety it insures. Without it, your body wearies far more quickly, and in turn, your reactions slow up. Your concentration slackens, and carelessness creeps in to do its harmful work.

That's the sequence of events that causes you to grab the handle of the boiling pot without first grabbing a potholder . . . or to dry a knife with the sharp edge turned toward you.

No matter how heavy your labors, you'll become less tired and less prone to accidents when you learn to stand correctly. Furthermore, when you feel full of verve and vitality, and are apt to make sudden thrusts, the proper stance will protect you — it will keep you from skidding down the stairs when you are in a rush, or spilling a tea tray when you're on your dignity, for instance!

If you round, elevate or hunch your shoulders, you will get into trouble any time that you pick up and carry a weighty object. For safety's sake (both yours and the dishes when you are carrying a tray), the shoulders should be relaxed and at their normal level, just as at all other times. This leaves the arms free to perform their own function without strain in the shoulders, back or abdomen. And the by-product will be a beautifully-poised appearance!

When on the stairs, if you take the trouble to put your foot flat on the tread with your weight firmly centered on the ball of the foot, you will always be safe. This distribution of weight, as in walking on a flat surface, gives you complete command of your balance and eliminates the danger of a heel careening out from under you. And the grace you gain makes it doubly worth the trouble.

Securities Trading

WASHINGTON — The Securities & Exchange Commission said that trading in the stock of Atlantic Research Corp. may resume Friday. On Oct. 10 the SEC suspended all trading in the issue. Employment Figures

WASHINGTON — Non-farm employment rose to 56.3 million workers in October, an all-time high, the Labor Department announced Wednesday.

However, the increase from September was only 58,000. Labor Department analysts said this showed that the employment picture continued on the plateau where it has remained during recent months.

Court Asked To Decide Who's Mayor

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va. (UPI) — The dispute over who is mayor of this eastern most of West Virginia towns has been taken to the courts.

The Town Council filed suit in Jefferson County Circuit Court seeking the removal from office of town recorder Nathaniel Greene III, who contends that he became mayor when Herbert Sperry resigned recently.

Council members insist that Gilbert Perry, whom they named to succeed Sperry during a special meeting Nov. 1, is the rightful mayor.

Their suits asks for Greene's removal and for an order requiring him to deliver all books and records of the town to the Council.

Tawes Accused Of Deal To Defeat Negro

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Tawes was accused Thursday of making a deal to defeat Judge Robert Watts in the Baltimore Municipal Court election because Watts is a Negro.

Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, secretary of the legal redress committee of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, made the accusation at a meeting on racial discrimination in employment.

Mrs. Mitchell, asked to substantiate the charge, said Gov. Tawes promoted the sitting judge principle in the primary election, but that his political organization ignored endorsement of the sitting judges in the general election last week.

She said Judge Watts is only one of many qualified Negroes who have been victims of discrimination in employment in Maryland and Baltimore City.

Judge Watts, who was appointed by Gov. Tawes when the court was formed last year, was defeated in the general election by Joseph Broccolino, a former police magistrate.

Mrs. Mitchell also charged public utilities of discriminating against Negroes in hiring.

She urged the advisory committee to investigate both the Chesapeake and Potomac Telphone Co. and the Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. She said they offered young Negro men and women only token job opportunities.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have no mercy on men who smoke foul-smelling cigars in offices, elevators and so on. Now I wonder if you will have the courage to come out and say something about a problem which is equally distressing to males. I refer to women who work in crowded offices and drown themselves in perfume.

I have become nauseated by barrages of gardenia, carnation, lily-of-the-valley and other dime store scents which choke my sinuses 40 hours a week. One babe has an atomizer at her desk and she sprays up a storm every hour, on the hour. I must have an allergy to her particular brand because whenever she does it I go into a sneezing fit.

You once said the air in an office belongs to everyone and no one person has the right to pollute it. Will you please say it again? —LOSING BY A NOSE

DEAR NOSE: I'll be happy to. The air in an office belongs to everyone and no one person has the right to pollute it.

If it's as bad as you say, it would not be unreasonable to ask the ladies to cut down the voltage —especially that babe who sprays.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was utterly fascinated by the comments of the women who were willing to drop everything and go to Colorado and marry, sight unseen, the engineer who was looking for a wife.

Can you tell me why, for example, a lady who comes from European nobility, speaks seven languages, cooks Hungarian, German, Portuguese, Spanish and American, enjoys catering to a man, knows all the secrets (including how to make love), has to look in the newspaper to find a husband? — PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: This, my friend, is one eloquent reason I refuse to put readers in touch with one another through the column. They may sound perfectly divine on paper, and still be sappy as a maple tree in April.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am engaged to marry a man who is almost 50 years of age. He has never been married before and I'm beginning to see why.

Jake is scared to death of his mother and can't seem to make a decision without checking with her first to see how she will take it. Recently, I found out by accident that the home we are planning to live in is on his mother's property. Jake has been a farmer for 12 years but he can't tell me whether or not he has made any money. My brothers are farmers and if they didn't know the answer to a question like this the Internal Revenue Service would soon be over to see them.

He says he doesn't have any money for repairing the house or for buying furniture. I have a little money of my own and I don't mind spending it. But what has this man been doing all these years?

The more I think about the life I might have with him the more frightened I get. How does it sound to you? — HOLES IN MY HEAD

DEAR FRIEND: Your signature sums up the situation nicely and it also suggests you've already made up your mind. I don't know what your life is like at present, but I can't imagine it could be so bad that marriage to this bird would be an improvement.

A Reverse For The Administration

Compulsory unionism was presumed to have achieved a stunning victory when a Presidential commission recommended union shop elections in major aerospace industries.

President Kennedy put his administration squarely behind the board's findings by implying that any company refusing to agree to a union shop vote was doing the country a disservice.

The companies finally bowed to administration pressure and agreed to the elections. The employe voting results were largely lost in the shuffle of the Cuban crisis and the national elections, but they amounted to a thumping reverse for the Kennedy administration and the advocates of compulsory unionism.

The latest rejections of the union shop come from employes of General Dynamics and Ryan Aeronautical Corp. Previously the employes of North American Aviation had refused to make union membership a requirement for holding a job in that company's plants.

As a result of these reverses union leaders fear that compulsory unionism may be hard to impose in other aerospace industries. Employers in other industries will be encouraged to offer stronger resistance. Certainly the outcome will add impetus to the right-to-work movement in states which do not have such laws.

The Flow Of Events

Fidel Castro has, thus far, established one fact, namely, that a bilateral arrangement designed to control or curb him must have his consent. This is a normal affirmation of sovereignty. It is an assertion that Castro, not Khrushchev, can make arrangements concerning Cuba.

When the Monroe Doctrine was recognized and the Platt Amendments were enforced, the United States, on its own, without consulting anyone, would have gone into Cuba, cleaned up the situation, thrown Castro out, and then there would have been an election and a new President for Cuba.

The assumption that Fidel Castro was the only alternative to Batista is denied in former Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith's forthcoming book, "The Fourth Floor," which deals with the subject of Cuba. Now we know Fidel Castro to be a wily, tricky, lying demagogue, who recognizes no loyalty to any friend or any cause. The sooner the political life of this creature ends, the better it will be.

Soviet Russia's word is at stake. It is all well and good to say that Soviet Russia never keeps its promises. The fact is that Soviet Russia exists and that we are required by circumstances to do business with Soviet Russia. There must be a meeting of the minds, if business is to be done at all.

Khrushchev agreed to an on-site inspection; therefore an on-site inspection there must be. If Castro is unhappy about what we do about Cuba—let him drink the dregs of his perfidy to the last drop—it should not concern us. However, if Soviet Russia cannot live up to this promise, that should concern us decidedly. We have the right, with dignity, to set a date for an on-site inspection, including caves, ditches, airfields, and similar places. If the United Nations is too weak to do this, we should do it ourselves. If the Russians want to join in such an inspection, seeing that they sent the murderous weapons to Cuba, we should welcome them.

Should it be found that the so-called removal of missiles was a trick like Potemkin's villages in the time of Catherine the Great, Castro should be arrested as a war-monger, brought before a tribunal, given a hearing and found guilty, and shot.

There are men, who when there is an opportunity to find a road to peace, put itch-powder in the ointment. It satisfies their need for personal importance; it feeds their ego and their vanity. For a moment, they strut on the stage of life, doing whatever mischief they can and then they are forgotten, as the odor of rotten eggs does, after all, disappear. Such a person is Castro who, having used and betrayed the United States which put him in power, is now apparently betraying Soviet Russia, which kept him in power against the wishes of the Cuban people; he is forming an alliance with Red China.

Surely, the government of the United States has more important activities to undertake and problems to solve than to devote the time and brains of some of its most capable men to dealing with the problem of how to rid the world of Castro without going to war with Russia. This formula is popular at this moment with the people who prefer talk to fight, but that mood can change if Castro twits us beyond our patience.

Cuba is in our hair and we want to comb it out. This is the most emotional question before our people. If an inch of Guantanamo were given up, the outcry would be so great that it might lead to war.

Let us look at the other side of the coin. Khrushchev is fighting for his political life and it is now clear that the Communist Congress on November 19, will definitely decide whether he continues in office or not. Should Khrushchev be demoted or sent into exile, it would mean that the Stalinist Party will be in control. Should Khrushchev remain the leader of European Communism, it is likely that Soviet Russia will support the American position in Cuba with arms and that Soviet Russia will support Nehru in partnership with the United States and Great Britain. It is remarkable what twists a single event can give to history. The meeting in Moscow on November 19 might be like the Battle of Tours (732) or the Battle at the Gates of Vienna (1683).

Hard Work Of Three Labor Leaders Averts Wide-Open AFL-CIO Split

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The wide-open split in the AFL-CIO was averted at the last minute only after David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies Garment Workers, Al Hayes of the Machinists, and Jake Potofsky of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers feverishly conferred with AFL President George Meany and CIO Leader Walter Reuther.

"I don't think Reuther will really walk out," grumbled Meany in the separate talk with these three leaders. "That's a lot of newspaper talk. However, I don't mind meeting with him if it means this much to you."

"Reuther and his people aren't engaging in idle threats," counseled Hayes. "They mean business. Feeling is running high. You and Reuther should forget your personal differences and get together before it's too late."

In one closed-door session of the AFL-CIO Executive Council, Meany called Reuther a liar and they almost came to blows. However, when Hayes, Dubinsky and Potofsky spoke to Reuther, he immediately agreed to meet with his old critic.

"However," he added, "Meany must meet us halfway. The CIO can no longer tolerate his dictatorial tactics and his shocking disregard of agreements that were made when the merger constitution was approved. Meany violates the letter and the spirit of the constitution when he tries to tell us that we can't name a CIO man (Ralph Helstein) to fill a CIO vacancy on the Executive Council."

Reuther added that he had other grievances, including the AFL-CIO's "negligence" in organizing non-union workers; also Meany's opposition to Jim Carey of the Electrical Workers as one of Reuther's alternates in the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

Face To Face

Meany was tight-lipped but friendly when he met behind closed doors with Reuther in the first of the man-to-man conferences. At times he even appeared a bit conciliatory.

Reuther reminded the AFL-CIO boss about a meeting in Brussels at which Meany declared that Carey, an AFL-CIO vice president, was "unacceptable" to him as Reuther's ICFTU alternate.

"I said then, as you may recall, that Jim Carey was my alternate to the ICFTU, not yours," remarked the United Auto Workers chief. "Therefore, it really shouldn't matter if he is unacceptable to me."

Meany didn't press the point, but he did dispute Reuther's contention that the AFL-CIO had become lax in organizing non-union employes.

"At the time of the merger in December, 1955, the CIO, with one-third the membership of AFL unions, had twice as many union organizers in the field," said Reuther. "In fact, we had more organizers then than the entire AFL-CIO has today. There is a strong feeling among my people that the organization may be united, but it's dead on its feet."

"That's absurd," challenged Meany. "American labor is healthier than it's ever been since the merger. Where are we dragging our feet?"

"Mainly in the white-collar field, including the retail workers," replied Reuther.

Meany countered that he couldn't dictate to individual unions, but that Congress could help in the organization of white-collar workers by broadening the coverage of the minimum wage law. He added, however, that the AFL-CIO soon would launch another drive to unionize more employes in the business field.

The AFL-CIO president flabbergasted Reuther when they discussed the proposed appointment of CIO's Ralph Helstein of the packinghouse workers to the Executive Council.

"Helstein himself is all right," said Meany. "As far as I can determine, he's a good fellow, honest and decent."

"Well, George, I'm certainly happy to hear you say that," declared Reuther. "In our previous discussions about Ralph Helstien I understood you to say that you were against him because you felt he was too left-wing."

"Maybe I did him an injustice, but some of the people in his union are certainly left-wing, and I don't want anyone on the Executive Council who may be dominated by such influences," said Meany.

"I don't either," agreed Reuther. "I might add that Ralph Helstein isn't dominated by anybody. He has done a good job in cleaning out most of the left-wingers from the packinghouse workers. I realize, of course, that there are some Republicans in the AFL-CIO, including Maurice Hutcheson (president of the Carpenters Union), who probably don't like Helstein. These are the same people who voted against Kennedy."

'Well, I can't tell them how to vote in a presidential election," snorted Meany.

Di Salle To Aid Job

Keep an eye on Mike Di Salle, retiring governor of Ohio, as the man whom Kennedy may pick to head the vitally important Foreign Aid Administration.

Di Salle has two qualities which aid needs most — administrative know-how and the ability to get along with Congress.

As head of the Office of Price Control during the Korean War, Di Salle handled one of the most unpopular agencies in the nation, and did it well. He even got along with Congress.

As governor of Ohio, Di Salle raised taxes — never popular — forced prison and mental hospital reform, and overhauled some of the bureaus which had been gathering dust during the complacent days of Gov. Frank Lausche. He made enemies — which led to his defeat. However, he was one of Ohio's most forthright governors. This is the kind of dynamo the aid agency needs.

Future Now Looks Brighter For Dick Nixon

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Maybe Richard Nixon has nine political lives after all. Things looked pretty bleak for him the other day after his defeat for the governorship of California. But now "Pravda," the leading Soviet newspaper in Moscow, and Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, have rejoiced at Mr. Nixon's defeat. So things are looking up for the former Vice President.

In Soviet terminology, they are always "burying" Americans of today and tomorrow, and here is what a United Press International dispatch on Monday said:

"Moscow—the voters of California 'buried forever' Richard M. Nixon's ambitious dreams of becoming President,' Pravda reported to Soviet readers yesterday. The newspaper said 'all the forces of the most rabid reaction rallied around' the former Vice President, but even ex-President Eisenhower's endorsement of him did not give him the 'support of the working people of California.'"

There are Communists in California—not in large numbers, but they are active and influential in some labor unions in defense plants and in other places. Most powerful, however, among the forces aligned against Mr. Nixon are many of the so-called "left-wingers" throughout the country who are not Communists at all but who somehow cherish the deepest resentment against him because he has helped to expose the influence of Communism in America. As a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities more than a decade ago, Mr. Nixon played an important part in bringing about the conviction of Alger Hiss, a former State Department official. The charge against Hiss was that he lied to a grand jury when he denied that he had turned over any State Department documents to Whittaker Chambers, a Communist agent who later defected and confessed.

Ever since that episode, the insidious attack on Nixon has continued in various forms. The name "Tricky Dick" was invented, and many an innuendo was printed in the press to convey the impression that the former Vice President was an unscrupulous man in politics. Many a person who read such comments believed them because there was no effective way to rebut the implications. Denials on specific points were disregarded.

It is no surprise, therefore, that Dick Nixon blew his top when the California election was over. He felt he had again been the victim of the same kind of tactics. Certainly he made a mistake in his off-the-cuff criticism of the press generally, but he had had no sleep in 48 hours and was tired and defeated. Some Presidents of the United States have been known to blow their tops in private, but somehow Nixon wasn't protected from himself that day and said to the press what he shouldn't have said in public no matter how much it pained him to keep silent.

A break for Mr. Nixon, however, came last week end. The American Broadcasting Company put on Alger Hiss as one of the speakers in a TV program entitled "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon." This brought protests by wire and letter. It stirred up the friends of the former Vice President and helped to make clear to many disinterested observers that Richard Nixon is still paying the penalty for having been a vigorous anti-Communist.

Ever since Mr. Nixon served on the House Committee on Un-American Activities, there has been, moreover, a determined movement—originating in California—to abolish that committee. Also, there has been a continuous campaign to get an archfoe of Communism, J. Edgar Hoover, out of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The overthrow of Mr. Nixon in politics has evoked many comments of satisfaction among those who feel that Communism is no menace in America, and that Communists are just like Republicans or Democrats and are entitled to carry on what is naively called "political activity." Even the Supreme Court of the United States has often accepted the theory that the Communists constitute just another political party.

As for Alger Hiss, he made a mistake in going on the air. He merely revived memories of his own case. Though he protests again his innocence, the fact remains that he had a jury trial and made an unsuccessful appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. He served a term in prison for his perjury. The American Broadcasting Company had a right, of course, to put him on television and, while some observers may consider it to have been poor judgment to do this, the broadcast may boomerang in Mr. Nixon's favor. For the incident has publicized and emphasized that a man in politics who fights Communism often has an unceasing handicap. Other things, of course—such as the dissension inside the Republican Party in California — contributed to Mr. Nixon's defeat, and his record in fighting Communism didn't get him enough votes to overcome the handicap.

Richard Nixon is a fighter. He may never win high office again, but he owes it to his country to continue the battle against Communist intrigue and against Communist infiltration of the press, the church, the colleges, the labor unions and other American institutions. For the Subversive Activities Control Board and the FBI —bogged down by all kinds of technicalities in the law and in court decisions — cannot possibly alert public opinion fully to the dangers presented by the few but powerful groups of Soviet-inspired tacticians inside America.

Inside Washington

SUMMIT MEETING—Diplomats in world capitals fully expect there will be another East-West summit meeting before the end of the year if the Cuban crisis is resolved sufficiently.

The "if" stems from a feeling that if the crisis should recur, Soviet Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy could gain little by a face-to-face meeting because of uninformed demands by the public of the two countries.

There is a continuing undercurrent of concern in diplomatic circles that the last has not been heard on events growing out of Russia's decision to supply Cuba with offensive, nuclear-capable weapons.

However, these quarters nurture the hope that some good could come from a summit meeting if it occurred at a propitious time and under the right conditions. Khrushchev was angling for a meeting with Kennedy long before the Cuban affair blew up into an international incident of the first magnitude. It is taken for granted that Mr. K. will use the incident as another compelling reason for a meeting.

President Kennedy has been reluctant to meet with the Soviet leader, however, because his one previous meeting, in Vienna after he had been in the White House only a matter of months, proved unfruitful and frustrating.

But the British want such a meeting and the French will go along. In the face of his attitude on the part of our Western allies, Kennedy is expected to accede, if only to reassure a shocked world that the United States is a reasonable world power that still would rather talk than fight.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

No one, it seems, ever asks what became of little Estonia. Indeed, few people know anything about it except that it is a Baltic Republic. Estonia today is a hungry face peering through Russia's front window. It is a cold place, sitting like the head of a tomahawk on the Gulf of Finland.

Estonia has no friends. The 1,500,000 persons who live there are not permitted to leave, and few aliens are allowed in. There are a few cities—Tallin, Rakvere, Tartu and Valga—and 1,500 lakes. The rest of it is a land of hard farming, potatoes, flax, butter and wood.

At best, these are dull facts. The history of Estonia is the history of all small independent peoples. They were always fighting to get out from under some tyrant's heel. In 1219, Waldemar II of Denmark tried to subdue the Estonians, won a part of the coast, only to have his grandson sell it to the Germans for 19,000 marks.

After World War I, the Estonians earned their complete independence. They were flanked by the Soviet Union on the east, but Estonia seemed hardly worth grabbing. Her total production seldom exceeded $300,000,000. The Gulf of Finland was heavy with drift ice, and sometimes froze over in the winter.

Anyone who took Estonia would have to support a poor relative. Thus it is a mark of the intensity of greed on the part of Russia that she kept a sharp eye on the tiny nation and, when the Molotov-Ribbentrop pact was signed on August 23, 1939, the Communists decided to grab.

This pact, designed by Adolf Hitler as a means of placating Russia while he made war against France and England in the west, was an overnight marriage between murderers. Hitler intended to defeat the west, then turn east and subjugate the Soviet Union. Therefore, when Russia asked, in a secret protocol to the pact, for part of Poland, and all of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, the Reichsfuehrer agreed.

Estonia had an army of 16,500 men. She was overrun overnight. This was 1940. Later, the Germans overran Estonia on their way to military oblivion and, still later, the Russians took the tiny nation again. After World War II, Mother Russia wanted the Estonians to have free elections, so the government was tossed out, thousands of able-bodied men and women were loaded in cattle cars, and sent to Siberia.

Most of these were never seen again. Purposely, the husbands were sent to labor camps apart from those where the wives were sent. The Estonians suffered in silence because they were permitted no voice to the outside world. Their cattle were taken; the one big wood pulp mill they had built was blasted to splinters.

The free election consisted of Estonian Communists forming a single slate of electors. Some Estonians decided to show disapproval by not voting. These were arrested and sentenced. The new Red government of Estonia begged to be allowed to become a "Soviet Republic." Permission was granted and it became the 16th satellite.

On June 13, 1941, the Russian secret police (NKVD) arrived and, within 24 hours, thousands of entire Estonian families disappeared. By sundown on June 14, the work of the secret police had been done. Estonia never lifted its head again.

The nation had been agricultural. The Russians decided to make it industrial. Today, food production is 20 per cent below the 1939 level. Industrial production for Russian military needs is up 550 per cent.

The average income is 764 rubles per month. This amounts to about $56. When the Estonians were independent, the wage earner brought home $112 a month, and the people considered themselves to be poor.

The Soviet Union, in 1959, decided that a poor relation can be made poorer. So they decided to "accept" $214,000,000 per year from Estonia toward the budget of the mother country. The Communist presidium in Moscow was so pleased, that it voted to send back 10 per cent of the gift to build a hydro-electric plant in Estonia to further assist Russian aspirations.

No one has heard an Estonian voice raised in protest at the United Nations. No one will. There is no Estonia. There is a freezing peninsula sticking north into the Gulf of Finland peopled by slaves who are permitted to work themselves to death to help the despots they despise.

Few people know anything at all about Estonia. Fewer still are aware of the aspirations of these people to be their own masters. The history of this little country is a blueprint of what will happen all over the world if the Soviet system prevails.

Remember, even the 200,000,000 people of Russia are prisoners of the Communist Party.

Don't Ignore Signs Of Impending Heart Attack

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Various clues warn of an impending heart attack. These signs and symptoms may be so minimal they are overlooked. But every man and woman should recognize them if sudden death from coronary heart disease is to be prevented or postponed.

Angina pectoris is an indication that the flow of blood through the coronary arteries is inadequate. The basic reason is that these vessels are narrowed because of arteriosclerosis and the heart muscle cannot get the amount of blood it needs during exercise or emotional upheavals. The passageways are like a partially clogged sink drain that is just about to stop up. Complete obstruction of the sink drain is easily corrected but an obstructed coronary artery means a heart attack.

Angina pectoris is an early indication that the vessel is involved. The individual develops pain, burning, or a sense of constriction beneath the breastbone, radiating into the neck, and down one or both arms. It follows exertion or excitement and is relieved within a few minutes by rest or nitroglycerine.

Several conditions increase the risk of having a coronary: A high level of certain fatty substances (cholesterol) in the blood, an elevation of the blood pressure, and overweight. All of these are detectable via a physical examination and all can be remedied. Furthermore, the remedies are not difficult or expensive, and they do not interfere with normal living.

There are other risk factors that require individual attention. They do not cause heart attacks but increase susceptibility to the condition. These include lack of physical activity, smoking, and emotional stress such as anger, gloom, and frustration. The chances of having a heart attack increase considerably when a combination of these risks is present.

TOMORROW: Lollipops to "brave" young patients.

NO INTEREST IN LIFE

B. A. writes: What can be done to improve a senile person's attitude? She is 79 and refuses to help herself or take an interest in anything.

REPLY

Nothing but it will help to be friendly and understanding. In many persons, the bad traits are accentuated as they grow older. Some elderly men and women withdraw (disengagement) from life. On the other hand, if the woman you write about is senile, she may be in need of medical care but don't use force because it has legal, medical, and family implications.

PRESSURE AND ALCOHOL

M. L. writes: If a person with high blood pressure drinks alcohol, does his pressure go up and if a person with low blood pressure drinks alcohol does his pressure go down?

REPLY

The effect of alcohol on the blood pressure is variable. In some, it goes up and in others, down. In many there is no change.

PUFFING AFTER DRINKING

M. L. writes: Why do the ankles swell after six or seven highballs? They are normal the next morning.

REPLY

Drinking too much and sitting too long with the legs in a dependent position. We assume this person is otherwise normal.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"Don't let the word 'paronomasia' throw you," advises good old Dr. John Fuller. "All that it means is an old-fashioned pun."

Dr. Fuller thereupon gives a few examples, such as the missionary who was seized by cannibals, tied to a post, and jabbed with daggers so that the savages could drink his blood. After a week he told the chief, "Look: I'm tired of being stuck for the drinks."

Then there was the great composer Bach, who, whenever he worked away from home, developed a prodigious appetite. So every time he went any place he packed a valise with six sandwiches, three apples, some cheese, and a selection of cookies. This became known as a Bach's lunch.

So that's what a paronomasia is!

Robert Keith Gray tells in his book, "Eighteen Acres Under Glass," about the time a little girl in the mid-west invited President and Mrs. Eisenhower to a surprise she was cooking up for her mother. In a postscript she added, "I am also inviting the Queen of England and Lassie."

Taken to a race track for the first time, a very conservative lady was persuaded to bet five dollars on the daily double—and she won! As she was raking in her loot at the pari-mutuel window she shook a warning finger at the pay-off clerk, and said sternly, "Young man, I hope this will be a lesson to you!"

Face To Face

Meany was tight-lipped but friendly when he met behind closed doors with Reuther in the first of the man-to-man conferences. At times he even appeared a bit conciliatory.

Reuther reminded the AFL-CIO boss about a meeting in Brussels at which Meany declared that Carey, an AFL-CIO vice president, was "unacceptable" to him as Reuther's ICFTU alternate.

"I said then, as you may recall, that Jim Carey was my alternate to the ICFTU, not yours," remarked the United Auto Workers chief. "Therefore, it really shouldn't matter if he is unacceptable to me."

Meany didn't press the point, but he did dispute Reuther's contention that the AFL-CIO had become lax in organizing non-union employes.

"At the time of the merger in December, 1955, the CIO, with one-third the membership of AFL unions, had twice as many union organizers in the field," said Reuther. "In fact, we had more organizers then than the entire AFL-CIO has today. There is a strong feeling among my people that the organization may be united, but it's dead on its feet."

"That's absurd," challenged Meany. "American labor is healthier than it's ever been since the merger. Where are we dragging our feet?"

"Mainly in the white-collar field, including the retail workers," replied Reuther.

Meany countered that he couldn't dictate to individual unions, but that Congress could help in the organization of white-collar workers by broadening the coverage of the minimum wage law. He added, however, that the AFL-CIO soon would launch another drive to unionize more employes in the business field.

The AFL-CIO president flabbergasted Reuther when they discussed the proposed appointment of CIO's Ralph Helstein of the packinghouse workers to the Executive Council.

"Helstein himself is all right," said Meany. "As far as I can determine, he's a good fellow, honest and decent."

"Well, George, I'm certainly happy to hear you say that," declared Reuther. "In our previous discussions about Ralph Helstien I understood you to say that you were against him because you felt he was too left-wing."

"Maybe I did him an injustice, but some of the people in his union are certainly left-wing, and I don't want anyone on the Executive Council who may be dominated by such influences," said Meany.

"I don't either," agreed Reuther. "I might add that Ralph Helstein isn't dominated by anybody. He has done a good job in cleaning out most of the left-wingers from the packinghouse workers. I realize, of course, that there are some Republicans in the AFL-CIO, including Maurice Hutcheson (president of the Carpenters Union), who probably don't like Helstein. These are the same people who voted against Kennedy."

'Well, I can't tell them how to vote in a presidential election," snorted Meany.

Di Salle To Aid Job

Keep an eye on Mike Di Salle, retiring governor of Ohio, as the man whom Kennedy may pick to head the vitally important Foreign Aid Administration.

Di Salle has two qualities which aid needs most — administrative know-how and the ability to get along with Congress.

As head of the Office of Price Control during the Korean War, Di Salle handled one of the most unpopular agencies in the nation, and did it well. He even got along with Congress.

As governor of Ohio, Di Salle raised taxes — never popular — forced prison and mental hospital reform, and overhauled some of the bureaus which had been gathering dust during the complacent days of Gov. Frank Lausche. He made enemies — which led to his defeat. However, he was one of Ohio's most forthright governors. This is the kind of dynamo the aid agency needs.

Future Now Looks Brighter For Dick Nixon

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Maybe Richard Nixon has nine political lives after all. Things looked pretty bleak for him the other day after his defeat for the governorship of California. But now "Pravda," the leading Soviet newspaper in Moscow, and Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, have rejoiced at Mr. Nixon's defeat. So things are looking up for the former Vice President.

In Soviet terminology, they are always "burying" Americans of today and tomorrow, and here is what a United Press International dispatch on Monday said:

"Moscow—the voters of California 'buried forever' Richard M. Nixon's ambitious dreams of becoming President,' Pravda reported to Soviet readers yesterday. The newspaper said 'all the forces of the most rabid reaction rallied around' the former Vice President, but even ex-President Eisenhower's endorsement of him did not give him the 'support of the working people of California.'"

There are Communists in California—not in large numbers, but they are active and influential in some labor unions in defense plants and in other places. Most powerful, however, among the forces aligned against Mr. Nixon are many of the so-called "left-wingers" throughout the country who are not Communists at all but who somehow cherish the deepest resentment against him because he has helped to expose the influence of Communism in America. As a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities more than a decade ago, Mr. Nixon played an important part in bringing about the conviction of Alger Hiss, a former State Department official. The charge against Hiss was that he lied to a grand jury when he denied that he had turned over any State Department documents to Whittaker Chambers, a Communist agent who later defected and confessed.

Ever since that episode, the insidious attack on Nixon has continued in various forms. The name "Tricky Dick" was invented, and many an innuendo was printed in the press to convey the impression that the former Vice President was an unscrupulous man in politics. Many a person who read such comments believed them because there was no effective way to rebut the implications. Denials on specific points were disregarded.

It is no surprise, therefore, that Dick Nixon blew his top when the California election was over. He felt he had again been the victim of the same kind of tactics. Certainly he made a mistake in his off-the-cuff criticism of the press generally, but he had had no sleep in 48 hours and was tired and defeated. Some Presidents of the United States have been known to blow their tops in private, but somehow Nixon wasn't protected from himself that day and said to the press what he shouldn't have said in public no matter how much it pained him to keep silent.

A break for Mr. Nixon, however, came last week end. The American Broadcasting Company put on Alger Hiss as one of the speakers in a TV program entitled "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon." This brought protests by wire and letter. It stirred up the friends of the former Vice President and helped to make clear to many disinterested observers that Richard Nixon is still paying the penalty for having been a vigorous anti-Communist.

Ever since Mr. Nixon served on the House Committee on Un-American Activities, there has been, moreover, a determined movement—originating in California—to abolish that committee. Also, there has been a continuous campaign to get an archfoe of Communism, J. Edgar Hoover, out of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The overthrow of Mr. Nixon in politics has evoked many comments of satisfaction among those who feel that Communism is no menace in America, and that Communists are just like Republicans or Democrats and are entitled to carry on what is naively called "political activity." Even the Supreme Court of the United States has often accepted the theory that the Communists constitute just another political party.

As for Alger Hiss, he made a mistake in going on the air. He merely revived memories of his own case. Though he protests again his innocence, the fact remains that he had a jury trial and made an unsuccessful appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. He served a term in prison for his perjury. The American Broadcasting Company had a right, of course, to put him on television and, while some observers may consider it to have been poor judgment to do this, the broadcast may boomerang in Mr. Nixon's favor. For the incident has publicized and emphasized that a man in politics who fights Communism often has an unceasing handicap. Other things, of course—such as the dissension inside the Republican Party in California — contributed to Mr. Nixon's defeat, and his record in fighting Communism didn't get him enough votes to overcome the handicap.

Richard Nixon is a fighter. He may never win high office again, but he owes it to his country to continue the battle against Communist intrigue and against Communist infiltration of the press, the church, the colleges, the labor unions and other American institutions. For the Subversive Activities Control Board and the FBI —bogged down by all kinds of technicalities in the law and in court decisions — cannot possibly alert public opinion fully to the dangers presented by the few but powerful groups of Soviet-inspired tacticians inside America.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

SUMMIT MEETING—Diplomats in world capitals fully expect there will be another East-West summit meeting before the end of the year if the Cuban crisis is resolved sufficiently.

The "if" stems from a feeling that if the crisis should recur, Soviet Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy could gain little by a face-to-face meeting because of uninformed demands by the public of the two countries.

There is a continuing undercurrent of concern in diplomatic circles that the last has not been heard on events growing out of Russia's decision to supply Cuba with offensive, nuclear-capable weapons.

However, these quarters nurture the hope that some good could come from a summit meeting if it occurred at a propitious time and under the right conditions. Khrushchev was angling for a meeting with Kennedy long before the Cuban affair blew up into an international incident of the first magnitude. It is taken for granted that Mr. K. will use the incident as another compelling reason for a meeting.

President Kennedy has been reluctant to meet with the Soviet leader, however, because his one previous meeting, in Vienna after he had been in the White House only a matter of months, proved unfruitful and frustrating.

But the British want such a meeting and the French will go along. In the face of his attitude on the part of our Western allies, Kennedy is expected to accede, if only to reassure a shocked world that the United States is a reasonable world power that still would rather talk than fight.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

No one, it seems, ever asks what became of little Estonia. Indeed, few people know anything about it except that it is a Baltic Republic. Estonia today is a hungry face peering through Russia's front window. It is a cold place, sitting like the head of a tomahawk on the Gulf of Finland.

Estonia has no friends. The 1,500,000 persons who live there are not permitted to leave, and few aliens are allowed in. There are a few cities—Tallin, Rakvere, Tartu and Valga—and 1,500 lakes. The rest of it is a land of hard farming, potatoes, flax, butter and wood.

At best, these are dull facts. The history of Estonia is the history of all small independent peoples. They were always fighting to get out from under some tyrant's heel. In 1219, Waldemar II of Denmark tried to subdue the Estonians, won a part of the coast, only to have his grandson sell it to the Germans for 19,000 marks.

After World War I, the Estonians earned their complete independence. They were flanked by the Soviet Union on the east, but Estonia seemed hardly worth grabbing. Her total production seldom exceeded $300,000,000. The Gulf of Finland was heavy with drift ice, and sometimes froze over in the winter.

Anyone who took Estonia would have to support a poor relative. Thus it is a mark of the intensity of greed on the part of Russia that she kept a sharp eye on the tiny nation and, when the Molotov-Ribbentrop pact was signed on August 23, 1939, the Communists decided to grab.

This pact, designed by Adolf Hitler as a means of placating Russia while he made war against France and England in the west, was an overnight marriage between murderers. Hitler intended to defeat the west, then turn east and subjugate the Soviet Union. Therefore, when Russia asked, in a secret protocol to the pact, for part of Poland, and all of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, the Reichsfuehrer agreed.

Estonia had an army of 16,500 men. She was overrun overnight. This was 1940. Later, the Germans overran Estonia on their way to military oblivion and, still later, the Russians took the tiny nation again. After World War II, Mother Russia wanted the Estonians to have free elections, so the government was tossed out, thousands of able-bodied men and women were loaded in cattle cars, and sent to Siberia.

Most of these were never seen again. Purposely, the husbands were sent to labor camps apart from those where the wives were sent. The Estonians suffered in silence because they were permitted no voice to the outside world. Their cattle were taken; the one big wood pulp mill they had built was blasted to splinters.

The free election consisted of Estonian Communists forming a single slate of electors. Some Estonians decided to show disapproval by not voting. These were arrested and sentenced. The new Red government of Estonia begged to be allowed to become a "Soviet Republic." Permission was granted and it became the 16th satellite.

On June 13, 1941, the Russian secret police (NKVD) arrived and, within 24 hours, thousands of entire Estonian families disappeared. By sundown on June 14, the work of the secret police had been done. Estonia never lifted its head again.

The nation had been agricultural. The Russians decided to make it industrial. Today, food production is 20 per cent below the 1939 level. Industrial production for Russian military needs is up 550 per cent.

The average income is 764 rubles per month. This amounts to about $56. When the Estonians were independent, the wage earner brought home $112 a month, and the people considered themselves to be poor.

The Soviet Union, in 1959, decided that a poor relation can be made poorer. So they decided to "accept" $214,000,000 per year from Estonia toward the budget of the mother country. The Communist presidium in Moscow was so pleased, that it voted to send back 10 per cent of the gift to build a hydro-electric plant in Estonia to further assist Russian aspirations.

No one has heard an Estonian voice raised in protest at the United Nations. No one will. There is no Estonia. There is a freezing peninsula sticking north into the Gulf of Finland peopled by slaves who are permitted to work themselves to death to help the despots they despise.

Few people know anything at all about Estonia. Fewer still are aware of the aspirations of these people to be their own masters. The history of this little country is a blueprint of what will happen all over the world if the Soviet system prevails.

Remember, even the 200,000,000 people of Russia are prisoners of the Communist Party.

Don't Ignore Signs Of Impending Heart Attack

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Various clues warn of an impending heart attack. These signs and symptoms may be so minimal they are overlooked. But every man and woman should recognize them if sudden death from coronary heart disease is to be prevented or postponed.

Angina pectoris is an indication that the flow of blood through the coronary arteries is inadequate. The basic reason is that these vessels are narrowed because of arteriosclerosis and the heart muscle cannot get the amount of blood it needs during exercise or emotional upheavals. The passageways are like a partially clogged sink drain that is just about to stop up. Complete obstruction of the sink drain is easily corrected but an obstructed coronary artery means a heart attack.

Angina pectoris is an early indication that the vessel is involved. The individual develops pain, burning, or a sense of constriction beneath the breastbone, radiating into the neck, and down one or both arms. It follows exertion or excitement and is relieved within a few minutes by rest or nitroglycerine.

Several conditions increase the risk of having a coronary: A high level of certain fatty substances (cholesterol) in the blood, an elevation of the blood pressure, and overweight. All of these are detectable via a physical examination and all can be remedied. Furthermore, the remedies are not difficult or expensive, and they do not interfere with normal living.

There are other risk factors that require individual attention. They do not cause heart attacks but increase susceptibility to the condition. These include lack of physical activity, smoking, and emotional stress such as anger, gloom, and frustration. The chances of having a heart attack increase considerably when a combination of these risks is present.

TOMORROW: Lollipops to "brave" young patients.

NO INTEREST IN LIFE

B. A. writes: What can be done to improve a senile person's attitude? She is 79 and refuses to help herself or take an interest in anything.

REPLY

Nothing but it will help to be friendly and understanding. In many persons, the bad traits are accentuated as they grow older. Some elderly men and women withdraw (disengagement) from life. On the other hand, if the woman you write about is senile, she may be in need of medical care but don't use force because it has legal, medical, and family implications.

PRESSURE AND ALCOHOL

M. L. writes: If a person with high blood pressure drinks alcohol, does his pressure go up and if a person with low blood pressure drinks alcohol does his pressure go down?

REPLY

The effect of alcohol on the blood pressure is variable. In some, it goes up and in others, down. In many there is no change.

PUFFING AFTER DRINKING

M. L. writes: Why do the ankles swell after six or seven highballs? They are normal the next morning.

REPLY

Drinking too much and sitting too long with the legs in a dependent position. We assume this person is otherwise normal.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"Don't let the word 'paronomasia' throw you," advises good old Dr. John Fuller. "All that it means is an old-fashioned pun."

Dr. Fuller thereupon gives a few examples, such as the missionary who was seized by cannibals, tied to a post, and jabbed with daggers so that the savages could drink his blood. After a week he told the chief, "Look: I'm tired of being stuck for the drinks."

Then there was the great composer Bach, who, whenever he worked away from home, developed a prodigious appetite. So every time he went any place he packed a valise with six sandwiches, three apples, some cheese, and a selection of cookies. This became known as a Bach's lunch.

So that's what a paronomasia is!

Robert Keith Gray tells in his book, "Eighteen Acres Under Glass," about the time a little girl in the mid-west invited President and Mrs. Eisenhower to a surprise she was cooking up for her mother. In a postscript she added, "I am also inviting the Queen of England and Lassie."

Taken to a race track for the first time, a very conservative lady was persuaded to bet five dollars on the daily double—and she won! As she was raking in her loot at the pari-mutuel window she shook a warning finger at the pay-off clerk, and said sternly, "Young man, I hope this will be a lesson to you!"

You're Telling Me

Education has not gone to the dogs in the town of Metz, France — though almost. A local school was recently closed for three days due to a plague of fleas.

Surgeons in Bonn, West Germany, operated on a woman, removed 16 teaspoons from her stomach. Now there, says Milt, the sterling printer, on reading that little item, is a gal who definitely was NOT trying to reduce!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Sounds like a real life Sheik of Araby has been discovered, if the enthusiasm of Sam Speigel, producer of "Lawrence of Arabia," and Samuel Bronston, producer of "The Fall of the Roman Empire" is to be believed. Both these ordinarily hard-headed gentlemen are claiming Omar Sharif is the new Valentino.

Sharif is a six-foot, dark-eyed 28-year-old Egyptian, and because he is a sensation in his first international film, "Lawrence of Arabia," he's now nabbed the role of Sophia Loren's husband in "Fall of the Roman Empire". Since the other stars in "Roman Empire" are Sir Alec Guinness, Stephen Boyd, Richard Harris, James Mason and John Ireland, I must say Sharif is in good company.

Those two young recording stars who were introduced by Arthur Godfrey on his Hollywood TV special, can be listed among the new singing favorites.

It's interesting that Lori and Lee, as they are called, were a couple of baby sitters who were discovered while working at their teen-age calling. They were practicing their vocals one night while baby sitting for the Seaman Jacobs, who were so impressed they brought the girls to the attention of a Columbia recording executive. The sisters were tested, and presto, were signed and are on their way.

I always get a chuckle out of the mutual admiration that goes on between Frank Sinatra and the taller young man called Frank Sinatra Jr. Frankie, the first, as you know, doesn't look up to many things, but all his rebelliousness vanishes around his son. And I must say that after hearing the boy play the piano—and sing on one of Jack Benny's TV shows, I couldn't agree more with Senior's approval.

I've just received the news that Frank Jr., who is a music major at UCLA, as well as taking courses in acting and writing, has signed with agent Herman Citron to take a few professional engagements. But Junior will take only those which will not interfere with his school work. He's wise.

I had heard that Otto Preminger favored Tom Tryon among the tests made for the title role of "The Cardinal," so I tracked down Otto. He said it was true that Tom had made a very fine test, but so had Cliff Robertson and several others, and Otto hadn't as yet made up his mind.

"I'll tell you as soon as I sign one of them," he promised.

I'd also been told that Robertson would be too closely identified with President Kennedy when he finishes "PT. 109," but this Otto denied, saying, "He's an actor, and can change his personality to fit the character he plays."

I was introduced to Kathleen Patricia, the 20-day-old baby that Patti Page and Charles O'Curran adopted. She really looks Irish, and Charlie, very proudly said, "She looks just like me!"

Patti may do "A Rage to Live" for Walter Mirisch, a story adtapted from John O'Hara's novel of several years ago. The nice thing about this movie for Patti is that it will be filmed in Hollywood the middle of next year. She doesn't want any runaway productions because she doesn't wish to stray too far away from the cradle-side of little Miss Kathleen.

It's good news that adventure is about to begin at MGM, and that Korea will pop up on the back lot there. Alert young producer A. C. Lyles has got himself a story "Attong" by Berne Lay, one of the best of our war film writers.

"Attong," I'm told, is the name of a real Korean town where our GI's fought with bravery and glory. Rory Calhoun and William Bendix will star as two of the finest with Francis Lyon directing.

Establish Office

NEW YORK (UPI)—A.J. Armstrong Co. Inc. Wednesday announced the establishment of a regional office in Philadelphia, the company's third major expansion in six months.

Martin Silverman, professor of money and banking at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia, has been appointed regional correspondent for the international Commercial finance organization.

Soviet Union Falling Short In Agriculture

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union will fall short of planned goals this year in the production of several farm commodities, Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev reported Tuesday.

Khrushchev's report to the ruling presidium of the Communist party was published this week in the Communist newspaper Pravda. It listed reductions in overall production of sugar beets, sunflowers and potatoes, and moderate increases in the output of milk and meat.

The premier said the government will procure grain "on the level" of deliveries in 1958, a bumper harvest year.

This referred to grain deliveries to the state, which are governed by administrative decision. It did not necessarily mean the 1962 grain crop had approached the 1958 harvest.

Pravda said Monday the 1962 grain harvest would surpass that of 1961, but did not give any comparison with 1958.

Western observers expect the agricultural problem will be on the agenda Monday at a meeting of Khrushchev and other top leaders on the Communist central committee.

White lines to designate traffic lanes were introduced in Boston in 1919.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Sounds like a real life Sheik of Araby has been discovered, if the enthusiasm of Sam Speigel, producer of "Lawrence of Arabia," and Samuel Bronston, producer of "The Fall of the Roman Empire" is to be believed. Both these ordinarily hard-headed gentlemen are claiming Omar Sharif is the new Valentino.

Sharif is a six-foot, dark-eyed 28-year-old Egyptian, and because he is a sensation in his first international film, "Lawrence of Arabia," he's now nabbed the role of Sophia Loren's husband in "Fall of the Roman Empire". Since the other stars in "Roman Empire" are Sir Alec Guinness, Stephen Boyd, Richard Harris, James Mason and John Ireland, I must say Sharif is in good company.

Those two young recording stars who were introduced by Arthur Godfrey on his Hollywood TV special, can be listed among the new singing favorites.

It's interesting that Lori and Lee, as they are called, were a couple of baby sitters who were discovered while working at their teen-age calling. They were practicing their vocals one night while baby sitting for the Seaman Jacobs, who were so impressed they brought the girls to the attention of a Columbia recording executive. The sisters were tested, and presto, were signed and are on their way.

I always get a chuckle out of the mutual admiration that goes on between Frank Sinatra and the taller young man called Frank Sinatra Jr. Frankie, the first, as you know, doesn't look up to many things, but all his rebelliousness vanishes around his son. And I must say that after hearing the boy play the piano—and sing on one of Jack Benny's TV shows, I couldn't agree more with Senior's approval.

I've just received the news that Frank Jr., who is a music major at UCLA, as well as taking courses in acting and writing, has signed with agent Herman Citron to take a few professional engagements. But Junior will take only those which will not interfere with his school work. He's wise.

I had heard that Otto Preminger favored Tom Tryon among the tests made for the title role of "The Cardinal," so I tracked down Otto. He said it was true that Tom had made a very fine test, but so had Cliff Robertson and several others, and Otto hadn't as yet made up his mind.

"I'll tell you as soon as I sign one of them," he promised.

I'd also been told that Robertson would be too closely identified with President Kennedy when he finishes "PT. 109," but this Otto denied, saying, "He's an actor, and can change his personality to fit the character he plays."

I was introduced to Kathleen Patricia, the 20-day-old baby that Patti Page and Charles O'Curran adopted. She really looks Irish, and Charlie, very proudly said, "She looks just like me!"

Patti may do "A Rage to Live" for Walter Mirisch, a story adtapted from John O'Hara's novel of several years ago. The nice thing about this movie for Patti is that it will be filmed in Hollywood the middle of next year. She doesn't want any runaway productions because she doesn't wish to stray too far away from the cradle-side of little Miss Kathleen.

It's good news that adventure is about to begin at MGM, and that Korea will pop up on the back lot there. Alert young producer A. C. Lyles has got himself a story "Attong" by Berne Lay, one of the best of our war film writers.

"Attong," I'm told, is the name of a real Korean town where our GI's fought with bravery and glory. Rory Calhoun and William Bendix will star as two of the finest with Francis Lyon directing.

Establish Office

NEW YORK (UPI)—A.J. Armstrong Co. Inc. Wednesday announced the establishment of a regional office in Philadelphia, the company's third major expansion in six months.

Martin Silverman, professor of money and banking at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia, has been appointed regional correspondent for the international Commercial finance organization.

Soviet Union Falling Short In Agriculture

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union will fall short of planned goals this year in the production of several farm commodities, Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev reported Tuesday.

Khrushchev's report to the ruling presidium of the Communist party was published this week in the Communist newspaper Pravda. It listed reductions in overall production of sugar beets, sunflowers and potatoes, and moderate increases in the output of milk and meat.

The premier said the government will procure grain "on the level" of deliveries in 1958, a bumper harvest year.

This referred to grain deliveries to the state, which are governed by administrative decision. It did not necessarily mean the 1962 grain crop had approached the 1958 harvest.

Pravda said Monday the 1962 grain harvest would surpass that of 1961, but did not give any comparison with 1958.

Dr. Burke is described as a dynamic force in the world of ideas, who is making Americans think. Starting in December 1960 on a single independent station in New York, he eventually had some 60 TV stations throughout the country carrying his program, "A Way of Thinking." Now he has a new series syndicated from coast to coast called "Probe—With Dr. Albert Burke."

He is a scientist, an economist and an expert on world affairs. He has lived in Russia, China, Germany, Czechoslovakia, in Latin America and among the American Indians. Formerly director of undergraduate studies in conservation at Yale University, he received his Ph. D in international relations from the University of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Robert Bond and son, Texas, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clark, Temperance Row.

The Christmas banquet will be held at Nave's Dining Room, Thursday, December 20 and cars will leave the church at six o'clock. Cheer baskets will be given to shutins and the committee will send boxes to the servicemen. Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Helen See, Mrs. Mary Wenrich and Mrs. Roselyn Lowery.

A birthday tribute of love to our dear Son and Brother, James Buckalew in memory of his birthday, November 15th, 1949, who passed away June 8th, 1960.

Dear God in your kingdom bright and clear
Our little Jim is living there,
He came to earth, but couldn't stay,
He stole our hearts, then went away;
Tonight when you tuck the Angels in
Please give some extra love to him,
Cuddle him close and tell him this:
His parents send a birthday kiss.
Please let our Darling Jimmy know,
He is loved in Heaven and on earth below.

Keyser Kiwanis To Honor Citizen Of Year Again

KEYSER—Initial plans for Keyser's "Citizens of the Year" program were discussed Wednesday by the Special Events committee following the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club in the Rosemont Restaurant.

James T. Handlan, chairman, has announced that the procedure will be much the same as in past years with the final decision being made by a committee representing the Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, and Soroptimist Clubs. They will give consideration to each nominee at a meeting presided over by the Kiwanis president. In the event of a tie then the president may also cast a vote.

Ballot boxes will be placed in the Farmers and Merchants Bank, the National Bank, Potomac Light and Power Company, City Offices, the Keyser Television Company, and the Public Library. Official ballots will also be carried in local newspapers for those who wish to clip them and attach to a resume of the nominee's activities.

Dear God in your kingdom bright and clear
Our little Jim is living there,

He stole our hearts, then went away,
Tonight when you tuck the Angels in
Please give some extra love to him,
Cuddle him close and tell him this;
His parents send a birthday kiss.
Please let our Darling Jimmy know,
He is loved in Heaven and on earth below.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ◇	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ◇

There is an ironic twist to the final result in today's hand, for declarer's failure came only after he had muffed a golden opportunity presented to him by an unwary opponent.

North was not certain that his side could score a game when South made a preëmptive jump overcall of three spades over East's opening bid, but there seemed more to gain than lose by proceeding to four spades.

West opened the deuce of diamonds which was revealed as an obvious singleton to his partner when South followed suit. After winning the diamond lead with the king, East paused to survey his side's prospects. He could see two diamond tricks, and a possible club trick if he could put West in for a play thru dummy in that suit. If West held a top trump, then the contract might be defeated.

So reasoning, East underled his ace of diamonds at trick two to permit his partner to regain the lead. West trumped away South's queen of diamonds with the three of spades. Recognizing that a club shift was virtually useless, due to his great length in that suit, West returned a heart, hoping to find East short. The trick was won in the dummy. The ten of spades was led next for a finesse. West won the trick with the king and returned a heart which East ruffed to score the setting trick.

Both South and East were guilty of serious lapses. When the ten of spades is led from the dummy, declarer can cinch his contract by going up with the ace. If East has the king of spades, then that trick should be conceded to him cheerfully, for there is no damaging return he can make. West must be kept out of the lead at all costs to prevent a possible ruff. When the king of spades falls under the ace, declarer takes 11 tricks.

East could have sunk declarer's ship much earlier by returning a heart at trick two. Since defensive prospects hinge on West's having a trump trick, East should proceed on that assumption. Even if South refuses the spade finesse, West will get in with the king of spades in time to lead a second heart to give East a ruff. The ace of diamonds scores the setting trick.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ◇	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ◇

There is an ironic twist to the final result in today's hand, for declarer's failure came only after he had muffed a golden opportunity presented to him by an unwary opponent.

North was not certain that his side could score a game when South made a preëmptive jump overcall of three spades over East's opening bid, but there seemed more to gain than lose by proceeding to four spades.

West opened the deuce of diamonds which was revealed as an obvious singleton to his partner when South followed suit. After winning the diamond lead with the king, East paused to survey his side's prospects. He could see two diamond tricks, and a possible club trick if he could put West in for a play thru dummy in that suit. If West held a top trump, then the contract might be defeated.

So reasoning, East underled his ace of diamonds at trick two to permit his partner to regain the lead. West trumped away South's queen of diamonds with the three of spades. Recognizing that a club shift was virtually useless, due to his great length in that suit, West returned a heart, hoping to find East short. The trick was won in the dummy. The ten of spades was led next for a finesse. West won the trick with the king and returned a heart which East ruffed to score the setting trick.

Both South and East were guilty of serious lapses. When the ten of spades is led from the dummy, declarer can cinch his contract by going up with the ace. If East has the king of spades, then that trick should be conceded to him cheerfully, for there is no damaging return he can make. West must be kept out of the lead at all costs to prevent a possible ruff. When the king of spades falls under the ace, declarer takes 11 tricks.

East could have sunk declarer's ship much earlier by returning a heart at trick two. Since defensive prospects hinge on West's having a trump trick, East should proceed on that assumption. Even if South refuses the spade finesse, West will get in with the king of spades in time to lead a second heart to give East a ruff. The ace of diamonds scores the setting trick.

New Morgan County Plant To Open Early Next Year

A new area industrial plant, which will be engaged in the production of a chemical adsorbent, is nearing completion in Morgan County and is expected to be placed in operation early next year.

The plant, under construction for several months, is located on U. S. Route 522, north of Berkeley Springs, adjacent to property of Research and Development Center of Pennsylvania Glass Sand Corporation.

Floridin Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Pennsylvania Glass Sand Corporation, is constructing the plant and will operate it in the production of Florisil, a synthetic magnesium silicate gel having what company officials call a "unique structure."

"Florisil is used extensively as a chromatographic adsorbent for determination of pesticide residues, clinical analyses, vitamin analyses, and a diversity of other organic isolations and separations," a company spokesman said.

Although the Pennsylvania Glass Sand Corporation provides sand for glass-making processes at Works 7 of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, the new plant on adjacent property will not have such a direct relationship with other area industries.

Cost of plant construction and the number of persons expected to be employed by the new firm could not be ascertained, although the number of personnel expected to be employed will be small.

Most chemical plants are generally highly mechanized, and do not require many employes. However, it is believed that the plant will give Morgan County and the surrounding area nucleus for industrial expansion in a new field.

A plant spokesman said today that the product, Florisil, can be used extensively in various industries.

Hunting Charge Results In Fine, Jail Sentence

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Clifton Teets, Wardensville, was fined $500 and sentenced to 60 days in jail before Justice Maurice Beail was spotlighting deer. Teets was charged with shooting deer during a closed season and with spotlighting and wascharged and fined fined on both counts.

The fine and jail sentences were the severest ever levied against a game violator in Hardy County. Teets was arrested by Sergeant Bart Townsend and Conservation Officer Ernie Sayres.

He was arrested last November in the Pine Ridge area with a spotlight and a loaded rifle. Because the offense this week was the second offense, Teets' rifle was confiscated and will be sold at public auction.

Officers Townsend and Sayres located a big buck which had been shot by spotlighters in the Pine Ridge area and recovered the bullet from the cadaver. Ballistic tests showed that the bullet came from Teets' rifle. Elwood Strawderman, Wardensville, was picked up for questioning by Officers Townsend and Sayres and gave a statement. Later Teets and Gordon Lafollette of Capon Springs were arrested and tried before Justice Beall. Strawderman was fined $23.50 and Lafollette $53.50.

Hunting Charge Results In Fine, Jail Sentence

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Clifton Teets, Wardensville, was fined $500 and sentenced to 60 days in jail before Justice Maurice Beall was spotlighting deer. Teets was charged with shooting deer during a closed season and with spotlighting and wascharged and fined fined on both counts.

The fine and jail sentences were the severest ever levied against a game violator in Hardy County. Teets was arrested by Sergeant Bart Townsend and Conservation Officer Ernie Sayres.

He was arrested last November in the Pine Ridge area with a spotlight and a loaded rifle. Because the offense this week was the second offense, Teets' rifle was confiscated and will be sold at public auction.

Officers Townsend and Sayres located a big buck which had been shot by spotlighters in the Pine Ridge area and recovered the bullet from the cadaver. Ballistic tests showed that the bullet came from Teets' rifle. Elwood Strawderman, Wardensville, was picked up for questioning by Officers Townsend and Sayres and gave a statement. Later Teets and Gordon Lafollette of Capon Springs were arrested and tried before Justice Beall. Strawderman was fined $23.50 and Lafollette $53.50.

Ferraro Should Win National Riding Honors

BALTIMORE (AP) — An upset victory with Norman Haymaker's Sir Charmian in the Ladies' Day Purse at Pimlico Race Course Thursday boosted apprentice Ronnie Ferraro into a tie with Willie Shoemaker for the National riding leadership.

The 19-year-old Philadelphian, who rode two winners earlier in the program, raised his 1962 winning total to 301. Ferraro, who rode his first winner here Nov. 28 last year, will lose his apprentice allowance Dec. 10.

Shoemaker, meanwhile, has decided virtually to concede the 1962 riding championship. In Arcadia, Calif., Shoemaker's agent, Harry Silbert, disclosed that his client has decided to sit out the remainder of the year.

Shoemaker will ride in a few important stakes but will not accept regular mounts and will vacation the remainder of the year, Silbert said.

The veteran jockey, who won the national championship four times and tied for a fifth, will resume riding when Santa Anita opens its meeting Dec. 26, but Ferraro presumably will have many mounts between now and that date.

Steelers Picked Over Redskins

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Steelers were made 3½-point favorites over the Washington Redskins Tuesday for next Sunday's National Football League game in Pittsburgh.

The New York Giants were picked by 14 at home over the Philadelphia Eagles and the Browns were 7 over the St. Louis Cardinals at Cleveland.

In the Western Division, the Detroit Lions were the choice by 10 points over the Vikings at Minnesota and the San Francisco Forty Niners were 2 points over the Rams at Los Angeles, while the Chicago Bears were 1½ over the Cowboys in an inter-division game at Dallas.

No "line" was quoted on the Green Bay Packers - Baltimore Colts game.

WVU Changes Ticket Policy At Field House

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University, faced with the problem of an 8,320-member student body and a 6,800-seat Field House, announced Thursday a policy change under which all seats will be reserved.

Athletic Director Robert N. Brown said a new validating system for WVU students and faculty members will assure them of a seat reserved in advance of each basketball game and thereby open up remaining space to the general public on a reserved-seat basis.

Brown said that in the past, a "5 o'clock rush" at the Field House tied up choice seats for 8 p.m. game while accommodating only a relatively small part of the student body that was willing to make the race and then await the game.

He said that as originally promised, first priority will be given to orders by Mountaineer Scholarship Fund contributors and faculty and staff members that were received by the Nov. 1 deadline.

Next priority for the Dec. 1 opening game with The Citadel will go to the student body and remaining faculty and staff during the Nov. 26-27 validating period. Starting Nov. 28, orders on hand from the general public and those received over-the-counter will be filled.

Brown said the price of all seats to the general public will be $2.50, every seat reserved. Orders will not be mailed until three days before each game.

"We are sure to encounter minor problems in instituting a revolutionary ticket and seating system," Brown said. "We ask the patience and understanding of all."

Cocky Fighter Floors Veteran 3 Times In 4th

Bout Ends In Exact Round Predicted By Young Heavy

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cassius Clay, putting his gloves where his mouth was, knocked out the old mongoose, amazing Archie Moore, in four rounds—the exact round the cocky youngster had predicted — in their heavyweight fight Thursday night.

The end for old Archie, the ring's most celebrated antique, began in the third round, and the 20-year-old Clay finished him off after 1 minute, 35 seconds of the fourth in their scheduled 12-rounder.

15,000 See Bout

As a capacity Sports Arena crowd estimated at 15,000 watched with a roar of amazement, the unbeaten young Louisville sensation literally hammered old Arch into submission with a barrage of lefts and rights while running his victory string to 16.

A left and a right stunned Archie and floored him for the first of three knockdowns in the fourth. Moore was so hurt that he literally half-stood on his head trying to get up from the canvas.

The accurate lefts and rights of Clay again crashed through Archie's by-then feeble defense and he went down on the seat of his pants.

At each knockdown, referee Tommy Hart reached the count of eight.

Didn't Bother To Count

But the referee did not bother to count after Archie's third trip to the floor.

"No single punch really knocked him out," said Hart before leaving the ring. "Cassius just poured the gloves into Moore and I knew he was through."

Clay weighed 204, the heaviest of his relatively brief career which began soon after he won the light-heavyweight championship in the 1960 Olympic Games.

Moore, from San Diego, Calif., weighed 197 for this, his 220th ring appearance. This was only the seventh knockout he had suffered.

About midway in the third round, Cassius smashed three good rights to the jaw and Archie, wobbly on his feet, backed into the ropes near Clay's corner. At the 10-second warning buzzer it looked as though Moore surely would fall and it took all his skill to last out the round.

Headed For Defeat

Moore answered the bell for the fourth but it was obvious the old man, who has been in the fighting trade for some 30 years, was tired and headed for defeat.

Cassius was unmarked and apparently as fresh as he had been when the widely heralded match began.

The crowd had set up a roar when the bell opened the fourth. Cassius repeatedly and publicly had promised that "Moore must fall in four."

Lynchburg Wins

Allegany Names Three Captains For Title Game

Allegany High School will have tri-captains for its Thanksgiving Day football engagement with Fort Hill High School, Coach Ed Schwartz announced yesterday.

Jim Bowman, right halfback, Dave Merrill, fullback, and John Roy, center, have been voted by the squad as the captains for the city championship contest, scheduled to get under way at 1:30 p. m.

Campers' Home Game

This is Allegany's home game and Camper students will occupy the concrete stands while Fort Hill students will be seated on the wooden bleachers.

Allegany's players will be attired in white jerseys.

Tickets are on sale at both schools. The prices are $1.75 for adults and $1.00 for students.

Ft. Hill Has 16 Seniors

Fort Hill High School has a squad of 38 eligibles for the Turkey Day game, 16 of whom are seniors, according to Coach Charles E. Lattimer.

Quarterback Delbert Proudfoot and Colin Smith, halfback, will co-captain the Sentinels.

Fort Hill will wear red jerseys in the season's finale.

Game Officials

Officials for the game will be Bennett Stump, Parkersburg, W. Va., referee; William Sheetz, Parkersburg, umpire; Albert Strimer, Parkersburg, head linesman, and Ray Maxwell, Sisterville, field judge.

Tigers Cop 11th Victory In Japan

SENDAI, Japan (UPI)—Al Kaline belted a homer with two out in the eighth inning Thursday to spark the Detroit Tigers to a 4-3 victory over an all-star Japanese squad before a crowd of more than 32,000.

Thursday's victory was the 11th for the Tigers against three defeats and a tie in their goodwill tour of Japan now expanded to 18 games.

Williamstown High Protest Dismissed By W.Va. Commission

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Secondary Schools Activities Commission (SSAC) dismissed Thursday a protest by Williamstown High School regarding Rainelle's eligibility for the State Class-A football playoff against Sophia Saturday.

Executive Secretary Gordon Eismon said the commission's Board of Appeals had received a written protest from Williamstown, but "the board felt that no change should be made on the decision reached Nov. 4 on the Rainelle-Marlinton game."

By defeating Marlinton, Rainelle got enough quality points to edge Williamstown in the final standings, 10.32 to 10.15. Sophia won its berth with an 11.6 rating.

The Rainelle - Marlinton game was not a regularly scheduled one, but was permitted in order to decide the championship of the Greenbrier Valley Conference. Board approval was needed because Marlinton had to call off a tentatively scheduled game with Crichton to take part in the playoff while remaining within the 10-game limit.

Eismon emphasized that Willaimstown's protest was not based on any hard feelings..."but merely sought a review of the board's earlier decision."

Penn State Top Prospect For Liberty Bowl

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UPI) — Liberty Bowl officials said Thursday that Penn State heads the consideration list for the "home team" berth in the Liberty Bowl game Dec. 15.

State, 7-1, is ranked best in the East in balloting for the Lambert Trophy.

Bud Dudley, president of Liberty Bowl Charities, said that Army, Boston College and Holy Cross remain in contention also. The game is played for the benefit of 60 hospitals.

Dartmouth, through undefeated is ineligible because of the Ivy League ban on bowl play.

Ferraro Should Win National Riding Honors

BALTIMORE (AP) — An upset victory with Norman Haymaker's Sir Charmian in the Ladies' Day Purse at Pimlico Race Course Thursday boosted apprentice Ronnie Ferraro into a tie with Willie Shoemaker for the National riding leadership.

The 19-year-old Philadelphian, who rode two winners earlier in the program, raised his 1962 winning total to 301. Ferraro, who rode his first winner here Nov. 28 last year, will lose his apprentice allowance Dec. 10.

Shoemaker, meanwhile, has decided virtually to concede the 1962 riding championship. In Arcadia, Calif., Shoemaker's agent, Harry Silbert, disclosed that his client has decided to sit out the remainder of the year.

Shoemaker will ride in a few important stakes but will not accept regular mounts and will vacation the remainder of the year, Silbert said.

The veteran jockey, who won the national championship four times and tied for a fifth, will resume riding when Santa Anita opens its meeting Dec. 26, but Ferraro presumably will have many mounts between now and that date.

A former Glenville (W.Va.) State College athlete, Williams coached at Clear Fork (W.Va.) High School.

Jones had served as coach for three years and his teams won 20 and lost 40 games.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Steelers were made 3½-point favorites over the Washington Redskins Tuesday for next Sunday's National Football League game in Pittsburgh.

The New York Giants were picked by 14 at home over the Philadelphia Eagles and the Browns were 7 over the St. Louis Cardinals at Cleveland.

In the Western Division, the Detroit Lions were the choice by 10 points over the Vikings at Minnesota and the San Francisco Forty Niners were 2 points over the Rams at Los Angeles, while the Chicago Bears were 1½ over the Cowboys in an inter-division game at Dallas.

No "line" was quoted on the Green Bay Packers - Baltimore Colts game.

WVU Changes Ticket Policy At Field House

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University, faced with the problem of an 8,320-member student body and a 6,800-seat Field House, announced Thursday a policy change under which all seats will be reserved.

Athletic Director Robert N. Brown said a new validating system for WVU students and faculty members will assure them of a seat reserved in advance of each basketball game and thereby open up remaining space to the general public on a reserved-seat basis.

Brown said that in the past, a "5 o'clock rush" at the Field House tied up choice seats for 8 p.m. game while accommodating only a relatively small part of the student body that was willing to make the race and then await the game.

He said that as originally promised, first priority will be given to orders by Mountaineer Scholarship Fund contributors and faculty and staff members that were received by the Nov. 1 deadline.

Next priority for the Dec. 1 opening game with The Citadel will go to the student body and remaining faculty and staff during the Nov. 26-27 validating period. Starting Nov. 28, orders on hand from the general public and those received over-the-counter will be filled.

Brown said the price of all seats to the general public will be $2.50, every seat reserved. Orders will not be mailed until three days before each game.

"We are sure to encounter minor problems in instituting a revolutionary ticket and seating system," Brown said. "We ask the patience and understanding of all."

Cocky Fighter Floors Veteran 3 Times In 4th

Bout Ends In Exact Round Predicted By Young Heavy

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cassius Clay, putting his gloves where his mouth was, knocked out the old mongoose, amazing Archie Moore, in four rounds—the exact round the cocky youngster had predicted — in their heavyweight fight Thursday night.

The end for old Archie, the ring's most celebrated antique, began in the third round, and the 20-year-old Clay finished him off after 1 minute, 35 seconds of the fourth in their scheduled 12-rounder.

15,000 See Bout

As a capacity Sports Arena crowd estimated at 15,000 watched with a roar of amazement, the unbeaten young Louisville sensation literally hammered old Arch into submission with a barrage of lefts and rights while running his victory string to 16.

A left and a right stunned Archie and floored him for the first of three knockdowns in the fourth. Moore was so hurt that he literally half-stood on his head trying to get up from the canvas.

The accurate lefts and rights of Clay again crashed through Archie's by-then feeble defense and he went down on the seat of his pants.

At each knockdown, referee Tommy Hart reached the count of eight.

Didn't Bother To Count

But the referee did not bother to count after Archie's third trip to the floor.

"No single punch really knocked him out," said Hart before leaving the ring. "Cassius just poured the gloves into Moore and I knew he was through."

Clay weighed 204, the heaviest of his relatively brief career which began soon after he won the light-heavyweight championship in the 1960 Olympic Games.

Moore, from San Diego, Calif., weighed 197 for this, his 220th ring appearance. This was only the seventh knockout he had suffered.

About midway in the third round, Cassius smashed three good rights to the jaw and Archie, wobbly on his feet, backed into the ropes near Clay's corner. At the 10-second warning buzzer it looked as though Moore surely would fall and it took all his skill to last out the round.

Headed For Defeat

Moore answered the bell for the fourth but it was obvious the old man, who has been in the fighting trade for some 30 years, was tired and headed for defeat.

Cassius was unmarked and apparently as fresh as he had been when the widely heralded match began.

The crowd had set up a roar when the bell opened the fourth. Cassius repeatedly and publicly had promised that "Moore must fall in four."

Campers' Home Game

This is Allegany's home game and Camper students will occupy the concrete stands while Fort Hill students will be seated on the wooden bleachers.

Allegany's players will be attired in white jerseys.

Ft. Hill Has 16 Seniors

Fort Hill High School has a squad of 38 eligibles for the Turkey Day game, 16 of whom are seniors, according to Coach Charles E. Lattimer.

Quarterback Delbert Proudfoot and Colin Smith, halfback, will co-captain the Sentinels.

Fort Hill will wear red jerseys in the season's finale.

Game Officials

Tigers Cop 11th Victory In Japan

SENDAI, Japan (UPI)—Al Kaline belted a homer with two out in the eighth inning Thursday to spark the Detroit Tigers to a 4-3 victory over an all-star Japanese squad before a crowd of more than 32,000.

Thursday's victory was the 11th for the Tigers against three defeats and a tie in their goodwill tour of Japan now expanded to 18 games.

Williamstown High Protest Dismissed By W.Va. Commission

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Secondary Schools Activities Commission (SSAC) dismissed Thursday a protest by Williamstown High School regarding Rainelle's eligibility for the State Class-A football playoff against Sophia Saturday.

Executive Secretary Gordon Eismon said the commission's Board of Appeals had received a written protest from Williamstown, but "the board felt that no change should be made on the decision reached Nov. 4 on the Rainelle-Marlinton game."

By defeating Marlinton, Rainelle got enough quality points to edge Williamstown in the final standings, 10.32 to 10.15. Sophia won its berth with an 11.6 rating.

The Rainelle - Marlinton game was not a regularly scheduled one, but was permitted in order to decide the championship of the Greenbrier Valley Conference. Board approval was needed because Marlinton had to call off a tentatively scheduled game with Crichton to take part in the playoff while remaining within the 10-game limit.

Eismon emphasized that Willaimstown's protest was not based on any hard feelings..."but merely sought a review of the board's earlier decision."

Penn State Top Prospect For Liberty Bowl

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (UPI) — Liberty Bowl officials said Thursday that Penn State heads the consideration list for the "home team" berth in the Liberty Bowl game Dec. 15.

State, 7-1, is ranked best in the East in balloting for the Lambert Trophy.

Bud Dudley, president of Liberty Bowl Charities, said that Army, Boston College and Holy Cross remain in contention also. The game is played for the benefit of 60 hospitals.

Dartmouth, through undefeated is ineligible because of the Ivy League ban on bowl play.

Early Wynn, 20 Year Veteran, Placed On Waivers By White Sox

Hurler To Seek Front Office Job In Baseball

Former Great May Still Go For 300th Win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Early Wynn, for 20 years one of baseball's leading pitchers, may get a chance to win his 300th game, but probably it won't be for the Chicago White Sox.

Wynn, who won seven games last year to wind up the season with 299 major league victories, Thursday was put on waivers by the Sox to permit him to search for a front office job in baseball.

The move was not a surprise since Wynn earlier had been given permission to make a deal for himself and had been in contact with other major league clubs.

The switch from the mound to the front office didn't mean definitely that Wynn would not pitch at all. In fact, the Sox said that if he doesn't land another job he will be welcome to work out in spring training with the club and perhaps make the mound staff.

Must Prove Himself

"He'll have to prove to himself and to manager Al Lopez that he can pitch," a Sox spokesman said.

The waivers were asked for the purpose of giving Wynn his unconditional release. Wynn, 42, first appeared in the major leagues with Washington in 1939 and came up to stay in 1941. He also pitched for Cleveland before he was traded to the White Sox.

Last year he wound up with a 7-15 record, only the fourth time in his career he finished below .500. He was a major cog on the Sox staff in their pennant winning year of 1959 when he was 22-10.

"This just gives me room to operate and to be in a better position to negotiate should anything come up," Wynn said at his home in Venice, Fla. "I'm not trying to get a job."

Still Wants 300 Wins

"I wouldn't turn down a deal that was better than if I was playing," he added, although he said he still wanted his 300th victory.

He said that his arrangement with the White Sox had been made during the last spring training season.

Grafton Changes Name Of Football Field To McKinney

GRAFTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The name of Grafton High School's football field will be formally changed to McKinney Field Nov. 22 in ceremonies honoring veteran Grafton Coach Randall H. McKinney.

The ceremony will take place during half-time of a Thanksgiving Day game between two teams made up of alumni who have been students of McKinney's.

The Grafton Kiwanis club and Jaycees also will sponsor a banquet Nov. 20 in honor of McKinney "and in appreciation of more than 35 years of service to Taylor County."

Ex-Bowling Green Cager Admits He Fixed Points

Reed Testifies In Bribery Trial Of Jack Molinas

NEW YORK (AP) — Dennis William (Billy) Reed, a former basketball star for Bowling Green, Ohio, State University, testified Thursday that Jack Molinas, former Columbia and pro basketball player, propositioned him to fix the points on five college games. He said two of the attempted dumps didn't work out.

Reed, a tall, slender New Yorker who said he had a full athletic scholarship at Bowling Green from 1958 to 1962, made the admissions in the trial of Molinas in the Criminal Part of Supreme Court. The case is being tried before Justice Joseph Sarafite and a jury.

Molinas is accused specifically of bribing Reed to fix three games in the 1959 and 1960 seasons. He also is charged with conspiring to fix 25 games involving 22 players from 12 colleges, and with subornation of perjury.

Earlier the scheduled sentencing of Aaron Wagman, another prosecution witness and admitted briber of college basketball players, on a guilty plea to bribery was postponed until Dec. 6 by Judge Sarafite. He could receive a five-to-10-year jail term.

The 25-year-old Reed said he first met Molinas in August 1959 at a playground in the Riverdale section of New York. Later, he testified, Molinas "asked me if I would like to earn a little spendind money by controlling the points in the basketball game the next day."

That was the Bowling Green-Michigan State game, Dec. 3, 1959, won by Michigan State by 29 points, 96-67. Reed said Molinas offered him $500 to control the points so that Bowling Green lost by 14 points or more.

Reed said he missed foul shots and threw the ball away "on purpose, watching the scoreboard all the while."

He said Molinas offered him $1,000 each to "work" two other games in December 1959. Both "contracts" were fulfilled, Reed said.

Reed said in the Bowling Green-DePaul game Bowling Green was supposed to lose by at least three points. DePaul won 74-68. In a game between Bowling Green and Bradley of Peoria, Ill., Bowling Green was supposed to lose by 14 or more points. Bradley won by 27-99-72.

The witness said attempted fixes did not work out in two games in 1960. He said this happened in the Bowling Green-Detroit game on March 5, 1960. Bowling Green lost by three points, 71-68, but presumably the fixers wanted the team to lose by more.

The other case was the Bowling Green-Loyola of Chicago game on Feb. 29, 1960. Reed said Molinas wanted Bowling Green to lose the game but Bowling Green won 73-61. Reed was hurt in this game.

Unknown Leads Sertoma Open

John Paul Jones Seven Under Par

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Unknown teaching pro John Paul Jones blasted par by seven strokes Thursday to take the first round lead in the fourth annual Mobile Sertoma PGA Open with a sparkling 65.

"My putter had eyes in the blade," the 31-year-old Jones said. The Hinesdale, Ill., instructor scored six birdies and an eagle in putting together nines of 32-33 over the 7,000-yard par 36-36—72 municipal course.

Jones' round, his finest in two years of sporadic play on the follow-the-sun tour, put him two shots ahead of Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., an early finisher with a 67.

More than 30 golfers bettered par as the winter tour neared the Christmas break. The field of 137 pros and seven amateurs will be cut to the low 60 and ties after Friday's round in the $15,000 tourney which offers $2,000 to the winner.

Jones' big hole was the par five sixth, a 508-yarder to a well-trapped sloping green. Jones banged a three wood two feet from the pin and tapped in the putt for the eagle, the only one scored Thursday.

Defending champion Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla., fired a 69 and pre-tournament favorite Doug Sanders, from Ojai, Calif., had a 71 with 17 pars and a birdie.

Hawkeyes End Speculation By Re-hiring Burns

Coach Had Been Hanged In Effigy

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Iowa football coach Jerry Burns, hanged in effigy only two weeks ago, was given a new three-year contract and a $2,500 pay raise Thursday to boost his salary to $17,500 a year.

The new contract amounted to a two-year extension of his current three-year pact which was due to expire at the end of next season.

Burns expressed his appreciation and promised to "do everything within our powers to keep Iowa football at its highest level."

The new contract ended speculation that Burns was under fire in connection with Iowa's current 3-4 season record. Burns was hanged in effigy on the campus after the Hawkeyes were defeated by Purdue. However, his stock soared after the Hawkeyes upset powerful Ohio State.

Burns took over the helm at Iowa in 1960 from Forest Evashevski, now the Hawkeye athletic director.

Deer Kills Drop To 7 In County

Twenty Below 1961, Garrett Total 15

Only seven deer were reported killed in Allegany county during the 17-day bow season which ended Wednesday, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The total was 20 less than last year.

Garrett county's kill, however, was 15 against only eight in 1961. Washington county had 16 kills, two less than last year's total.

With the exception of the first Saturday when approximately 200 hunters were on Green Ridge forest, bowmen were scarce.

Minke stated that it was obvious Allegany county does not have as many deer as last year and attributes this to the heavy hunting pressure during two years and the anterless season in the eastern end of the county last December.

The rabbit, grouse and quail season opened yesterday and most of the rabbit hunters were successful. Several got the daily limit of four and most every hunter checked by the wardens had at least one. Grouse and quail hunters were few, however. If the weather is good Saturday a record number of hunters is expected in the woods.

Two of the seven deer slain in Allegany county were checked at stations in Washington county and the names of the hunters were not available.

ALLEGANY COUNTY

Kenneth Conner, Corriganville, button buck, 75, Piney Mountain.

Patrick Glass, Mt. Savage, 6-130, Big Savage.

Rowland K. White, Marbury, Md., spike 90, Long's Woods.

Don Drysdale Wins Cy Young Pitching Award

LA Righthander Thrilled By Honor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "This is one of the high points of my career," Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Thursday as he was named winner of the Cy Young Award as baseball's outstanding pitcher of 1962.

"It's quite a thrill to be so honored by the Baseball Writers Association of America," the 26-year-old right-hander said. "This is my greatest personal achievement. It ranks with the team thrill of winning the World Series in 1959 and with being named 'Player of the Game' in the 1959 All-Star Game."

Drysdale won 25 games last season and led the major league in strikeouts with 232. He lost nine games, some of them in the stretch drive after southpaw Sandy Koufax was sidelined in July by a numbed pitching hand and Drysdale had to take up the slack.

Drysdale worked 314 innings, the most for a National Leaguer in six years, and his 41 starts also was top for the league. Not since 1904 had a Dodger pitcher started that often.

"Insofar as my 25 victories are concerned, I think I was lucky," Drysdale said. "The team played good ball behind me, and that's all a pitcher can ask for."

Drysdale polled 14 of the 20 votes cast by the writers' committee. Only four pitchers received votes — all National Leaguers. Jack Sanford of San Francisco got four votes. Cincinnati's Bob Purkey and Billy Pierce of the Giants each received one vote.

Willie Posts Triple

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI)—Willie Harmatz rode three winners at Garden State Park Thursday, including the second half of the $42,20 daily double.

Harmatz scored on Thyana ($7.20) in the second, Mrs. Jewel ($7.00) in the third and Belle of Dumes ($10.00) in the eighth. Inact ($10.00) won the opener.

Early Wynn, 20 Year Veteran, Placed On Waivers By White Sox

Hurler To Seek Front Office Job In Baseball

Former Great May Still Go For 300th Win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Early Wynn, for 20 years one of baseball's leading pitchers, may get a chance to win his 300th game, but probably it won't be for the Chicago White Sox.

Wynn, who won seven games last year to wind up the season with 299 major league victories, Thursday was put on waivers by the Sox to permit him to search for a front office job in baseball.

The move was not a surprise since Wynn earlier had been given permission to make a deal for himself and had been in contact with other major league clubs.

The switch from the mound to the front office didn't mean definitely that Wynn would not pitch at all. In fact, the Sox said that if he doesn't land another job he will be welcome to work out in spring training with the club and perhaps make the mound staff.

Must Prove Himself

"He'll have to prove to himself and to manager Al Lopez that he can pitch," a Sox spokesman said.

The waivers were asked for the purpose of giving Wynn his unconditional release. Wynn, 42, first appeared in the major leagues with Washington in 1939 and came up to stay in 1941. He also pitched for Cleveland before he was traded to the White Sox.

Last year he wound up with a 7-15 record, only the fourth time in his career he finished below .500. He was a major cog on the Sox staff in their pennant winning year of 1959 when he was 22-10.

"This just gives me room to operate and to be in a better position to negotiate should anything come up," Wynn said at his home in Venice, Fla. "I'm not trying to get a job."

Still Wants 300 Wins

"I wouldn't turn down a deal that was better than if I was playing," he added, although he said he still wanted his 300th victory.

He said that his arrangement with the White Sox had been made during the last spring training season.

Grafton Changes Name Of Football Field To McKinney

GRAFTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The name of Grafton High School's football field will be formally changed to McKinney Field Nov. 22 in ceremonies honoring veteran Grafton Coach Randall H. McKinney.

The ceremony will take place during half-time of a Thanksgiving Day game between two teams made up of alumni who have been students of McKinney's.

The Grafton Kiwanis club and Jaycees also will sponsor a banquet Nov. 20 in honor of McKinney "and in appreciation of more than 35 years of service to Taylor County."

Ex-Bowling Green Cager Admits He Fixed Points

Reed Testifies In Bribery Trial Of Jack Molinas

NEW YORK (AP) — Dennis William (Billy) Reed, a former basketball star for Bowling Green, Ohio, State University, testified Thursday that Jack Molinas, former Columbia and pro basketball player, propositioned him to fix the points on five college games. He said two of the attempted dumps didn't work out.

Reed, a tall, slender New Yorker who said he had a full athletic scholarship at Bowling Green from 1958 to 1962, made the admissions in the trial of Molinas in the Criminal Part of Supreme Court. The case is being tried before Justice Joseph Sarafite and a jury.

Molinas is accused specifically of bribing Reed to fix three games in the 1959 and 1960 seasons. He also is charged with conspiring to fix 25 games involving 22 players from 12 colleges, and with subornation of perjury.

Earlier the scheduled sentencing of Aaron Wagman, another prosecution witness and admitted briber of college basketball players, on a guilty plea to bribery was postponed until Dec. 6 by Judge Sarafite. He could receive a five-to-10-year jail term.

The 25-year-old Reed said he first met Molinas in August 1959 at a playground in the Riverdale section of New York. Later, he testified, Molinas "asked me if I would like to earn a little spending money by controlling the points in the basketball game the next day."

That was the Bowling Green-Michigan State game, Dec. 3, 1959, won by Michigan State by 29 points, 96-67. Reed said Molinas offered him $500 to control the points so that Bowling Green lost by 14 points or more.

Reed said he missed foul shots and threw the ball away "on purpose, watching the scoreboard all the while."

He said Molinas offered him $1,000 each to "work" two other games in December 1959. Both "contracts" were fulfilled, Reed said.

Reed said in the Bowling Green-DePaul game Bowling Green was supposed to lose by at least three points. DePaul won 74-68. In a game between Bowling Green and Bradley of Peoria, Ill., Bowling Green was supposed to lose by 14 or more points. Bradley won by 27-99-72.

The witness said attempted fixes did not work out in two games in 1960. He said this happened in the Bowling Green-Detroit game on March 5, 1960. Bowling Green lost by three points, 71-68, but presumably the fixers wanted the team to lose by more.

The other case was the Bowling Green-Loyola of Chicago game on Feb. 29, 1960. Reed said Molinas wanted Bowling Green to lose the game but Bowling Green won 73-61. Reed was hurt in this game.

Unknown Leads Sertoma Open

John Paul Jones Seven Under Par

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Unknown teaching pro John Paul Jones blasted par by seven strokes Thursday to take the first round lead in the fourth annual Mobile Sertoma PGA Open with a sparkling 65.

"My putter had eyes in the blade," the 31-year-old Jones said. The Hinesdale, Ill., instructor scored six birdies and an eagle in putting together nines of 32-33 over the 7,000-yard par 36-36—72 municipal course.

Jones' round, his finest in two years of sporadic play on the follow-the-sun tour, put him two shots ahead of Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., an early finisher with a 67.

More than 30 golfers bettered par as the winter tour neared the Christmas break. The field of 137 pros and seven amateurs will be cut to the low 60 and ties after Friday's round in the $15,000 tourney which offers $2,000 to the winner.

Jones' big hole was the par five sixth, a 508-yarder to a well-trapped sloping green. Jones banged a three wood two feet from the pin and tapped in the putt for the eagle, the only one scored Thursday.

Defending champion Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla., fired a 69 and pre-tournament favorite Doug Sanders, from Ojai, Calif., had a 71 with 17 pars and a birdie.

Hawkeyes End Speculation By Re-hiring Burns

Coach Had Been Hanged In Effigy

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Iowa football coach Jerry Burns, hanged in effigy only two weeks ago, was given a new three-year contract and a $2,500 pay raise Thursday to boost his salary to $17,500 a year.

The new contract amounted to a two-year extension of his current three-year pact which was due to expire at the end of next season.

Burns expressed his appreciation and promised to "do everything within our powers to keep Iowa football at its highest level."

The new contract ended speculation that Burns was under fire in connection with Iowa's current 3-4 season record. Burns was hanged in effigy on the campus after the Hawkeyes were defeated by Purdue. However, his stock soared after the Hawkeyes upset powerful Ohio State.

Burns took over the helm at Iowa in 1960 from Forest Evashevski, now the Hawkeye athletic director.

Then they will compete in the Philadelphia Inquirer Games, Feb. 2; Los Angeles Times meet, Feb. 16, and the National AAU Championships at New York, Feb. 23.

Deer Kills Drop To 7 In County

Twenty Below 1961, Garrett Total 15

Only seven deer were reported killed in Allegany county during the 17-day bow season which ended Wednesday, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The total was 20 less than last year.

Garrett county's kill, however, was 15 against only eight in 1961. Washington county had 16 kills, two less than last year's total.

With the exception of the first Saturday when approximately 200 hunters were on Green Ridge forest, bowmen were scarce.

Minke stated that it was obvious Allegany county does not have as many deer as last year and attributes this to the heavy hunting pressure during two years and the anterless season in the eastern end of the county last December.

The rabbit, grouse and quail season opened yesterday and most of the rabbit hunters were successful. Several got the daily limit of four and most every hunter checked by the wardens had at least one. Grouse and quail hunters were few, however. If the weather is good Saturday a record number of hunters is expected in the woods.

Two of the seven deer slain in Allegany county were checked at stations in Washington county and the names of the hunters were not available.

The following bagged deer in Garrett and Allegany counties:

Kenneth Conner, Corriganville, button buck, 75, Piney Mountain.

Patrick Glass, Mt. Savage, 6-130, Big Savage.

Rowland K. White, Marbury, Md., spike 90, Long's Woods.

LA Righthander Thrilled By Honor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "This is one of the high points of my career," Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers said Thursday as he was named winner of the Cy Young Award as baseball's outstanding pitcher of 1962.

"It's quite a thrill to be so honored by the Baseball Writers Association of America," the 26-year-old right-hander said. "This is my greatest personal achievement. It ranks with the team thrill of winning the World Series in 1959 and with being named 'Player of the Game' in the 1959 All-Star Game."

Drysdale won 25 games last season and led the major league in strikeouts with 232. He lost nine games, some of them in the stretch drive after southpaw Sandy Koufax was sidelined in July by a numbed pitching hand and Drysdale had to take up the slack.

Drysdale worked 314 innings, the most for a National Leaguer in six years, and his 41 starts also was top for the league. Not since 1904 had a Dodger pitcher started that often.

"Insofar as my 25 victories are concerned, I think I was lucky," Drysdale said. "The team played good ball behind me, and that's all a pitcher can ask for."

Drysdale polled 14 of the 20 votes cast by the writers' committee. Only four pitchers received votes — all National Leaguers. Jack Sanford of San Francisco got four votes. Cincinnati's Bob Purkey and Billy Pierce of the Giants each received one vote.

Willie Posts Triple

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI)—Willie Harmatz rode three winners at Garden State Park Thursday, including the second half of the $42,20 daily double.

Harmatz scored on Thyana ($7.20) in the second, Mrs. Jewel ($7.00) in the third and Belle of Dumes ($10.00) in the eighth. Inact ($10.00) won the opener.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Heavy selling weakened wheat futures Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Corn and oats lost small fractions, while soybeans closed firm and rye prices mixed.

Wheat closed off 1⅛ to 1¼, corn off ¼ to ½, oats off ⅛ to ½, rye off ⅜ to up ¼, soybeans up ⅛ to ⅜, and drummed lard off 10 to 105 points.

Wheat contracts fell sharply as commission house selling touched off stop orders. Shorts bought on the decline, but buying interest was generally light.

Dealers blamed the bearish sentiment on a prediction by agriculture secretary Orville Freeman that there will be a strong effort to defeat the wheat program in next Summer's referendum. He said prices could break sharply if the certificate plan is voted down.

Feed grains eased on selling resulting from the break in wheat, but dealings slowed down after the opening. Export houses were early buyers of December corn. Longs sold on the upturn.

Rye prices ranged steady to easier in slow trading.

Demand by exporters and processors firmed soybean prices. Meal and oil advanced, although volume slowed considerably around noon. Some dealers bought beans and sold wheat.

Exporters said India purchased 780,000 bushels of soft white wheat and the Azores 224,000 bushels of soft red. Greece took 800,000 bushels of corn, and Britain 400,000 bushels.

The November drummed lard contract expired at noon, down 105 points on a single trade to a new seasonal low.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Heavy selling weakened wheat futures Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Corn and oats lost small fractions, while soybeans closed firm and rye prices mixed.

Wheat closed off ⅞ to 1⅛, corn off ¼ to ½, oats off ⅛ to ½, rye off ⅜ to up ¼, soybeans up ⅛ to ⅞, and drummed lard off 10 to 105 points.

Wheat contracts fell sharply as commission house selling touched off stop orders. Shorts bought on the decline, but buying interest was generally light.

Dealers blamed the bearish sentiment on a prediction by agriculture secretary Orville Freeman that there will be a strong effort to defeat the wheat program in next Summer's referendum. He said prices could break sharply if the certificate plan is voted down.

Feed grains eased on selling resulting from the break in wheat, but dealings slowed down after the opening. Export houses were early buyers of December corn. Longs sold on the upturn.

Rye prices ranged steady to easier in slow trading.

Demand by exporters and processors firmed soybean prices. Meal and oil advanced, although volume slowed considerably around noon. Some dealers bought beans and sold wheat.

Exporters said India purchased 780,000 bushels of soft white wheat and the Azores 224,000 bushels of soft red. Greece took 800,000 bushels of corn, and Britain 400,000 bushels.

The November drummed lard contract expired at noon, down 105 points on a single trade to a new seasonal low.

Youth Killed By Vehicle On Long Hill

Gerald Welsh, 16, Hillcrest Dr., Dies Of Skull Fracture

A 16-year-old Route 2 boy was killed late yesterday afternoon when he ran into the path of an oncoming car on U. S. Route 40 on Long Hill.

He was Gerald H. Welsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Welsh, of Hillcrest Drive, off Baltimore Pike.

State Police said he died of a fractured skull when he was struck by a station wagon driven by James Frederick Kight, 309 Decatur Street.

The accident occurred on Long Hill, about 1/10 of a mile east of the city limits, as young Walsh ran down a bank and started across the eastbound lanes of the dual highway.

Troopers P. J. Fiorita and R. W. Brown investigated for State Police.

A junior at Fort Hill High School, he was crossing the highway from his home nearby and only a short distance from the bridge which spans the highway.

Young Kight, driving a vehicle owned by his father, Byron G. Kight, reported he blew his horn and applied the brakes after pulling into the left lane of the highway to avoid the accident.

The pedestrian was struck by the right front of the car. Authorities were told he was on his way to a neighbor's home.

The youth was born in Beaver County, Pa., a son of Sherman and Rose (Flook) Welsh. He attended Sunday School at the Cumberland Mennonite Church.

Surviving, besides his parents, is his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Martha Rice, city.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home.

Mrs. Pierce's Estate Now Being Settled

The estate of Mrs. Louisa Henderson Pierce, wife of the late Col. Thomas L. Pierce and a former resident of Cumberland, is being settled in Tucson, Ariz.

Her will also has been recorded here at the office of Register of Wills James M. Roby.

After making various specific bequests and giving her household and personal effects to her surviving sister, Mrs. Helen Green of Cumberland, Mrs. Pierce devised the remainder of her estate to the Liberty Trust Company of Cumberland as trustee. Col. Pierce at one time was president of this bank.

From one half of the trust estate the net income is paid to Miss Evalina Pierce, sister of Col. Pierce, and to his brother, Admiral Maurice Pierce, and the latter's wife, Cecelia Pierce.

Upon their deaths, that half of trust ceases and that portion of the principal of the trust goes to Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine, of which Col. Pierce was a graduate.

From the other half of the trust estate the income is payable to Mrs. Pierce's sister, Mrs. Helen Green, for her life. At her death the principal will be divided between Mrs. Green's two children, Major Sydney Green of the U. S. Air Force, stationed at Davis-Monthon Air Force Base at Tucson, and Mrs. William J. Gunter, who lives in Cumberland.

In her will Mrs. Pierce refused to exercise the right to dispose of her interest in a trust for her benefit by her mother, Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, so that under the will of Mrs. Henderson this interest goes to Mrs. Pierce's brother, Judge George Henderson, and to her sister, Mrs. Green.

Visitor Gets Fruit Cake

Webb St. Clair, right, president of the Northwest Washington Kiwanis Club, is shown receiving the first Claxton fruit cake being sold this year by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club. Presenting the cake is Francis C. Rohman Jr., now serving as fruit cake sale chairman for the third successive year. Between them is Dr. John J. Robinson Jr., president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club. Mr. St. Clair and five other members of his club drove from the District of Columbia to present a discussion on a youth hostel which that club developed at Sandy Hook.

Kiwanians Hear Talk About Youth Hostels

Three members of the Northwest Washington Kiwanis Club told Cumberland Kiwanians yesterday how they acquired an old auction house near the C&O Canal at Sandy Hook in Maryland opposite Harpers Ferry and developed it as a youth hostel.

Webb St. Clair, president of the Northwest Washington Club, started the discussion by explaining that the property was purchased in February 1961 for $6,500. A new septic tank and new well were installed and the property was remodeled extensively.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall was the principal speaker at the dedication of the Sandy Hook hostel on May 18.

Tighe Woods, a past president of the club, explained that the club made a $1,500 down payment on the property and the former owner mortgaged the other $5,000 which the club is paying off in monthly installments.

Members of the Youth Hostel Association are privileged to use the facilities at Sandy Hook at an overnight charge of 75 cents to $1. There are some 15,000 members of the association, composed of nature lovers who enjoy hiking and cycling.

Mr. Woods, who was federal housing expediter from 1947 until 1952 during the administration of President Harry S. Truman, is now engaged in the real estate business in Washington and in Montgomery County.

Dr. Joseph R. Salcetti, another past president and present secretary of the club, was the third speaker. He told the Cumberland Kiwanians that the club makes about $3,000 a year on its profit making projects which is used on the youth hostel. He said that between May and October some 300 persons used the Sandy Hook hostel and they came from as far away as England and France.

Before returning to Washington the three speakers and three other members of the club, Dr. Bud Schatz, Jack McEntee and Frank Ferguson, visited the Sunshine Camp, which the Cumberland Kiwanis has operated for four weeks each summer since 1940. They seemed to think this Sunshine Camp property could be approved by the Youth Hostel Association and become a regular stop for hikers and cyclists visiting Cumberland.

Md. Supervisor Addresses Teachers Here

Elliott Lapin, state supervisor of special education, discussed a recent state survey of programs for exceptional children, at a meeting yesterday afternoon with all of the teachers and some principals in Allegany County schools.

Mr. Lapin met with the teachers and principals yesterday afternoon at the Board of Education office.

The survey divided exceptional children into three major categories. They include mental deviates, retarded and gifted; those with physical handicaps such as speech, hearing and sight, and finally the emotionally disturbed.

The state supervisor said that all 23 Maryland counties and Baltimore City but it varies greatly. The suburban counties near Baltimore and Washington have the most advanced programs but every county is doing something in this field.

In Allegany County, Homer S. Higgins, supervisor for pupil personnel, said, there are 17 special units. These units for educable and trainable children function at Westernport Elementary School, Central Elementary School in Lonaconing Lincoln School in Frostburg, LaVale Elementary School, Pennsylvania Avenue School, Northeast Elementary School, Bowman's Addition, Gephart Elementary School and Allegany High School. Centre Street School has a class for the neurologically impaired children.

Yesterday morning Mr. Lapin visited special classes at Lincoln, Central and Westernport. He is planning to go to several other schools this morning before returning to Baltimore.

The C of C directors also expressed appreciation to members of the commission for their work in developing recommendations and suggestions for meeting the problem.

PTAs Warned School Aid Means Taxes

New System Of Financing Aired

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — John S. Shriver, state fiscal research director, sternly advised the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers Thursday that "there is no possibility of increasing state spending under the current tax structure."

"However, there is no reason why if people want more aid to education, they cannot have it. But it is not fair to let them believe they can have it without providing for it.

"The taxpayers are going to have to foot the bill."

Shriver was on a panel discussing school financing at the 47th annual convention of the PTA.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Blair Lee, former state delegate from Montgomery County, both endorsed Shriver's stand that sponsors of more school money from the state must be prepared to support more taxes.

"We need more schools and better teachers and we must be willing to pay the price for them," said Goldstein.

Lee said it has become an unwritten policy in the state legislature that any new program must be accompanied by a tax to support it—"in the same bill."

Deficits Forseen

Lee and Paul Cooper, assistant superintendent in the state department of education, discussed a proposed new plan of state school aid that would cost $14 million more a year while Shriver predicted the state would collect $5 million less than it would be called upon to spend next year.

"And the deficit will increase in 1964," Shriver said. He said the state's tax structure will have to be adjusted periodically just to take care of natural growth in spending demands.

Cooper endorsed a plan by the Maryland State Teachers Association to change the basis for state school aid. It is now distributed largely on the basis of minimum teacher salaries.

The new method would be based on providing $225 per pupil. The state would pay half of the total cost for all pupils. But the amount for each of the 23 counties and Baltimore city would vary based on their property assessments. The smaller counties would receive a higher percentage than the more wealthy.

While Lee favored the principle of putting state aid on a pupil rather than teacher basis, he said he had some reservations about the specific proposal.

Urges Gradual Approach

Since the distribution will be based entirely on property assessment, he said tax differences existing among the counties would be reflected. The assessments figure only partly in the current method.

He also said the flexibility of the present system which has been in effect basically since 1922 enabled it to be used to meet changing needs.

Speaking from his political experience, Lee told the PTA "the new program is going to have a tough time in the legislature unless it gets prior approval of key people—first and foremost Gov. Tawes."

He suggested it might be wiser to push for change in the system only, at first, without the $14 million increase.

J. Sidney King, director of public relations for a Baltimore television station, in giving his reaction to the panelists, said the PTA must "sell" the program to taxpayers.

"You must explain it to them so they understand it," he said.

Planning Unit Initiates Step For Legislation

County Park Agency Would Be Created

Two resolutions were adopted last night by the Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission as the first step to get local legislation at the next session of the General Assembly in Annapolis.

The first resolution requests that the county commissioners initiate the necessary legislation to create a county park and recreation agency, preferably under the direction of the planning and zoning commission.

The second asks that the county commissioners take the necessary steps to get legislative action giving the county commissioners the authority to authorize a building code if and when the county commissioners want it. C. Lee Renaud, the county planning director, said the county commissioners now lack the authorit to establish a building code if they want it.

Inspection Sought

Another step taken by the County Planning and Zoning Commission calls for the employment of a zoning inspector to direct this expanding program. Two members of the commission, James A. Perrin and Carl O. Belt, will interview applicants for the inspector's job.

A petition signed by some 22 citizens of Allegany County was submitted to the commission last night requesting that the commission hold its hearing on subdivision regulation at the earliest opportunity. Several months ago, the commission deferred the hearing until February. The petitioners believe that is too long.

The planning report on schools, parks and recreation, prepared by Julian Tarrant, senior associate of Ladislas Segoe and Associates, was approved by the commission last night. It now will be prepared for publication.

Meeting Planned

The commission also decided last night that it should set up a meeting, probably in January, with various civic groups which are interested in park and playground developments in the county.

In another action last night, it was agreed that a series of workshops should be conducted under the direction of Mr. Renaud so that the general public can better understand the objectives of planning and zoning in the county.

All five commission members were present last night. They include Richard Winer, Ralph Race, County Commissioner John T. Mason, Mr. Perrin and Mr. Belt. County Commissioners Louis V. Shinnamon and John J. Rowan also attended.

Islands Removed From Intersection

Two traffic islands were removed yesterday from Louisiana Avenue, at its intersection with Hill Top Drive, according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

The islands were taken off by Street Department crews at the request of the Police Department.

In connection with the removal of the islands, a stop sign which used to halt traffic on Louisiana Avenue going toward the center of the city has been removed.

This gives Louisiana Avenue traffic the right of way, going up or down, and will remove the traffic bottleneck caused by the islands, police said.

Kitchen Knife Brings Arrest Of Three Boys

11 Vehicles Found, Entry Is Solved

A kitchen knife left in a vehicle stolen here earlier this week led to the apprehension yesterday of three minor boys, the recovery of 10 bicycles and the solution of a breaking and entering on the Mt. Savage Road on Election night.

Lt. Thomas J. See said the oldest of the boys was taken to detention quarters yesterday after he and two younger brothers admitted participation in the bike thefts and the robbery of the store-service station.

The knife was found on the seat of a jeep which Ronald Shaffer, 970 Maryland Avenue, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker, reported stolen from State Street Tuesday. The vehicle was abandoned the same day on Patterson Avenue after it ran out of gas, Lt. See said.

Lt. See said the lad had used the knife to remove the ignition switch and then strip the insulation off wires before splicing them to start the vehicle.

Lt. See yesterday showed the knife to the stepmother of a suspect and was told she had been looking for her knife and couldn't find it.

He said the 15-year-old boy then admitted he had stolen and abandoned the jeep and, with his brothers, had broke into the McFadden service station and store on the Mt. Savage Road on November 6 and had stolen the bikes.

The boys told city police they rode stolen bikes to the Mt. Savage Road establishment and then left the vehicles and part of their loot and walked back to their home on the West Side here.

The bikes abandoned at the scene of the robbery were recovered by State Police.

Meanwhile, Lt. See and Detective Kenneth Morrissey had recovered five stolen bikes.

Lt. See said the boys sold most of the stolen bikes for $1 each. The youngest boy stole a bike, then returned it to the child's mother and collected a $5 reward, he said.

The boys will be turned over to State Police today for questioning and are expected then to be taken to the state's attorney's office for further questioning.

More than 14,500 students and adults in Allegany County public schools are expected to be served the special Thanksgiving lunches next Tuesday in the school cafeterias, according to Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias.

The suggested menu for the dinner includes orange juice, sliced turkey, whipped potatoes, dressing, cranberry sauce, tossed vegetable salad, enriched white bread and butter, fruit bar and milk.

Some 2,025 pounds of sliced turkey has been distributed to the school cafeterias.

Last November some 14,503 were served turkey dinners just before the Thanksgiving holiday. They included 13,830 students and 673 adults.

Mrs. Eaton also pointed out that all school cafeterias will serve luncheon next Wednesday except Beall High School, Allegany High School and Fort Hill High School despite the fact that the Thanksgiving holiday starts at 1 p. m. Wednesday.

Authorities of the Tri-State area were searching last night for three prisoners who escaped at gunpoint from the Berkeley County Jail in Martinsburg, W. Va., early yesterday afternoon.

Police immediately set up roadblocks in the area as the search for the men, one of whom was reported to be "armed and dangerous."

Leader of the jailbreak was a Maryland man wanted for questioning about a murder in his home state and being held in West Virginia for a $127,600 robbery.

Deputy Sheriff Paul le Dane said George William Courtney, 36, of Hagerstown, pulled a gun on him and forced him to open his cell.

Courtney fled along with two other inmates identified as Harvey E. Hess, 22, and Richard Leroy Stotler, 20, being held on breaking and entering and larceny charges.

Police in adjoining areas of West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania were alerted.

Courtney was awaiting action of the grand jury in adjacent Morgan County on charges of stealing $127,600 in U. S. bonds, cash and jewels from the home of Jennie Harmison in Berkeley Springs last September 10.

He also was wanted for questioning in the fatal shooting last September 12 of William James Chessman, 62, at Hagerstown.

Courtney was arrested in Harrisburg, Pa. October 5 after an eight-state manhunt.

The accident occurred on Long Hill, about 1/10 of a mile east of the city limits, as young Walsh ran down a bank and started across the eastbound lanes of the dual highway.

Troopers P. J. Fiorita and R. W. Brown investigated for State Police.

A junior at Fort Hill High School, he was crossing the highway from his home nearby and only a short distance from the bridge which spans the highway.

Young Kight, driving a vehicle owned by his father, Byron G. Kight, reported he blew his horn and applied the brakes after pulling into the left lane of the highway to avoid the accident.

The pedestrian was struck by the right front of the car. Authorities were told he was on his way to a neighbor's home.

The youth was born in Beaver County, Pa., a son of Sherman and Rose (Flook) Welsh. He attended Sunday School at the Cumberland Mennonite Church.

Surviving, besides his parents, is his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Martha Rice, city.

Visitor Gets Fruit Cake

Webb St. Clair, right, president of the Northwest Washington Kiwanis Club, is shown receiving the first Claxton fruit cake being sold this year by the Cumberland Kiwanis Club. Presenting the cake is Francis C. Rohman Jr., now serving as fruit cake sale chairman for the third successive year. Between them is Dr. John J. Robinson Jr., president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club. Mr. St. Clair and five other members of his club drove from the District of Columbia to present a discussion on a youth hostel which that club developed at Sandy Hook.

Kiwanians Hear Talk About Youth Hostels

Three members of the Northwest Washington Kiwanis Club told Cumberland Kiwanians yesterday how they acquired an old auction house near the C&O Canal at Sandy Hook in Maryland opposite Harpers Ferry and developed it as a youth hostel.

Webb St. Clair, president of the Northwest Washington Club, started the discussion by explaining that the property was purchased in February 1961 for $6,500. A new septic tank and new well were installed and the property was remodeled extensively.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall was the principal speaker at the dedication of the Sandy Hook hostel on May 18.

Tighe Woods, a past president of the club, explained that the club made a $1,500 down payment on the property and the former owner mortgaged the other $5,000 which the club is paying off in monthly installments.

Members of the Youth Hostel Association are privileged to use the facilities at Sandy Hook at an overnight charge of 75 cents to $1. There are some 15,000 members of the association, composed of nature lovers who enjoy hiking and cycling.

Mr. Woods, who was federal housing expediter from 1947 until 1952 during the administration of President Harry S. Truman, is now engaged in the real estate business in Washington and in Montgomery County.

Dr. Joseph R. Salcetti, another past president and present secretary of the club, was the third speaker. He told the Cumberland Kiwanians that the club makes about $3,000 a year on its profit making projects which is used on the youth hostel. He said that between May and October some 300 persons used the Sandy Hook hostel and they came from as far away as England and France.

Before returning to Washington the three speakers and three other members of the club, Dr. Bud Schatz, Jack McEntee and Frank Ferguson, visited the Sunshine Camp, which the Cumberland Kiwanis has operated for four weeks each summer since 1940. They seemed to think this Sunshine Camp property could be approved by the Youth Hostel Association and become a regular stop for hikers and cyclists visiting Cumberland.

From one half of the trust estate the net income is paid to Miss Evalina Pierce, sister of Col. Pierce, and to his brother, Admiral Maurice Pierce, and the latter's wife, Cecelia Pierce.

Upon their deaths, that half of trust ceases and that portion of the principal of the trust goes to Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine, of which Col. Pierce was a graduate.

At her death the principal will be divided between Mrs. Green's two children, Major Sydney Green of the U. S. Air Force, stationed at Davis-Monthon Air Force Base at Tucson, and Mrs. William J. Gunter, who lives in Cumberland.

In her will Mrs. Pierce refused to exercise the right to dispose of her interest in a trust for her benefit by her mother, Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, so that under the will of Mrs. Henderson this interest goes to Mrs. Pierce's brother, Judge George Henderson, and to her sister, Mrs. Green.

PTAs Warned School Aid Means Taxes

New System Of Financing Aired

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — John S. Shriver, state fiscal research director, sternly advised the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers Thursday that "there is no possibility of increasing state spending under the current tax structure."

"However, there is no reason why if people want more aid to education, they cannot have it. But it is not fair to let them believe they can have it without providing for it.

"The taxpayers are going to have to foot the bill."

Shriver was on a panel discussing school financing at the 47th annual convention of the PTA.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Blair Lee, former state delegate from Montgomery County, both endorsed Shriver's stand that sponsors of more school money from the state must be prepared to support more taxes.

"We need more schools and better teachers and we must be willing to pay the price for them," said Goldstein.

Lee said it has become an unwritten policy in the state legislature that any new program must be accompanied by a tax to support it—"in the same bill."

Deficits Forseen

Lee and Paul Cooper, assistant superintendent in the state department of education, discussed a proposed new plan of state school aid that would cost $14 million more a year while Shriver predicted the state would collect $5 million less than it would be called upon to spend next year.

"And the deficit will increase in 1964," Shriver said. He said the state's tax structure will have to be adjusted periodically just to take care of natural growth in spending demands.

Cooper endorsed a plan by the Maryland State Teachers Association to change the basis for state school aid. It is now distributed largely on the basis of minimum teacher salaries.

The new method would be based on providing $225 per pupil. The state would pay half of the total cost for all pupils. But the amount for each of the 23 counties and Baltimore city would vary based on their property assessments. The smaller counties would receive a higher percentage than the more wealthy.

While Lee favored the principle of putting state aid on a pupil rather than teacher basis, he said he had some reservations about the specific proposal.

Urges Gradual Approach

Since the distribution will be based entirely on property assessment, he said tax differences existing among the counties would be reflected. The assessments figure only partly in the current method.

He also said the flexibility of the present system which has been in effect basically since 1922 enabled it to be used to meet changing needs.

Speaking from his political experience, Lee told the PTA "the new program is going to have a tough time in the legislature unless it gets prior approval of key people—first and foremost Gov. Tawes."

He suggested it might be wiser to push for change in the system only, at first, without the $14 million increase.

J. Sidney King, director of public relations for a Baltimore television station, in giving his reaction to the panelists, said the PTA must "sell" the program to taxpayers.

"You must explain it to them so they understand it," he said.

Planning Unit Initiates Step For Legislation

County Park Agency Would Be Created

Two resolutions were adopted last night by the Allegany County Planning and Zoning Commission as the first step to get local legislation at the next session of the General Assembly in Annapolis.

The first resolution requests that the county commissioners initiate the necessary legislation to create a county park and recreation agency, preferably under the direction of the planning and zoning commission.

The second asks that the county commissioners take the necessary steps to get legislative action giving the county commissioners the authority to authorize a building code if and when the county commissioners want it. C. Lee Renaud, the county planning director, said the county commissioners now lack the authorit to establish a building code if they want it.

Inspection Sought

Another step taken by the County Planning and Zoning Commission calls for the employment of a zoning inspector to direct this expanding program. Two members of the commission, James A. Perrin and Carl O. Belt, will interview applicants for the inspector's job.

A petition signed by some 22 citizens of Allegany County was submitted to the commission last night requesting that the commission hold its hearing on subdivision regulation at the earliest opportunity. Several months ago, the commission deferred the hearing until February. The petitioners believe that is too long.

The planning report on schools, parks and recreation, prepared by Julian Tarrant, senior associate of Ladislas Segoe and Associates, was approved by the commission last night. It now will be prepared for publication.

Meeting Planned

The commission also decided last night that it should set up a meeting, probably in January, with various civic groups which are interested in park and playground developments in the county.

In another action last night, it was agreed that a series of workshops should be conducted under the direction of Mr. Renaud so that the general public can better understand the objectives of planning and zoning in the county.

All five commission members were present last night. They include Richard Winer, Ralph Race, County Commissioner John T. Mason, Mr. Perrin and Mr. Belt. County Commissioners Louis V. Shinnamon and John J. Rowan also attended.

Islands Removed From Intersection

Two traffic islands were removed yesterday from Louisiana Avenue, at its intersection with Hill Top Drive, according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

The islands were taken off by Street Department crews at the request of the Police Department.

In connection with the removal of the islands, a stop sign which used to halt traffic on Louisiana Avenue going toward the center of the city has been removed.

This gives Louisiana Avenue traffic the right of way, going up or down, and will remove the traffic bottleneck caused by the islands, police said.

Kitchen Knife Brings Arrest Of Three Boys

11 Vehicles Found, Entry Is Solved

A kitchen knife left in a vehicle stolen here earlier this week led to the apprehension yesterday of three minor boys, the recovery of 10 bicycles and the solution of a breaking and entering on the Mt. Savage Road on Election night.

Lt. Thomas J. See said the oldest of the boys was taken to detention quarters yesterday after he and two younger brothers admitted participation in the bike thefts and the robbery of the store-service station.

The knife was found on the seat of a jeep which Ronald Shaffer, 970 Maryland Avenue, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker, reported stolen from State Street Tuesday. The vehicle was abandoned the same day on Patterson Avenue after it ran out of gas, Lt. See said.

Lt. See said the lad had used the knife to remove the ignition switch and then strip the insulation off wires before splicing them to start the vehicle.

Lt. See yesterday showed the knife to the stepmother of a suspect and was told she had been looking for her knife and couldn't find it.

He said the 15-year-old boy then admitted he had stolen and abandoned the jeep and, with his brothers, had broke into the McFadden service station and store on the Mt. Savage Road on November 6 and had stolen the bikes.

The bikes abandoned at the scene of the robbery were recovered by State Police.

Meanwhile, Lt. See and Detective Kenneth Morrissey had recovered five stolen bikes.

Lt. See said the boys sold most of the stolen bikes for $1 each. The youngest boy stole a bike, then returned it to the child's mother and collected a $5 reward, he said.

The boys will be turned over to State Police today for questioning and are expected then to be taken to the state's attorney's office for further questioning.

Obtain Pistol, Force Deputy To Free Them

Authorities of the Tri-State area were searching last night for three prisoners who escaped at gunpoint from the Berkeley County Jail in Martinsburg, W. Va., early yesterday afternoon.

Police immediately set up roadblocks in the area as the search for the men, one of whom was reported to be "armed and dangerous."

Leader of the jailbreak was a Maryland man wanted for questioning about a murder in his home state and being held in West Virginia for a $127,600 robbery.

Deputy Sheriff Paul le Dane said George William Courtney, 36, of Hagerstown, pulled a gun on him and forced him to open his cell.

Courtney fled along with two other inmates identified as Harvey E. Hess, 22, and Richard Leroy Stotler, 20, being held on breaking and entering and larceny charges.

Police in adjoining areas of West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania were alerted.

He also was wanted for questioning in the fatal shooting last September 12 of William James Chessman, 62, at Hagerstown.

Courtney was arrested in Harrisburg, Pa. October 5 after an eight-state manhunt.
